At right is singer Joanie Hall who co-stars with the Gunsmoke character, Festus, in real life Ken Curtis, became thoroughly familiar with the song as a member of the Sons of the Pioneers. The rodeo closes after performances tonight and Sunday afternoon.

Washburns Escape As Fire Razes Home

BLODGETT -- Otto Washburn, 67, and his son, Kenny Washburn, 29, barely escaped with their lives from their burning home a half mile north of here at 2 a.m. today. The fire's origin was not determined.

They fled in their nightclothes, losing all other possessions in the home owned by Ben Marshall III on a farm, where the two had worked. The five-room frame house was on highway H.

The elder Washburn retired from farming two years ago.

The two would be grateful for household articles and clothing to again set up housekeeping. Donations may be given to Reece Gates, Blodgett, or call Harold Brewer, 471-9825, who will pick up donated items.

Auto Warranties May Be Dropped

DETROIT (AP) — Those five-year or 50,000-mile warranties on new cars may go the route of the rumble seat with the introduction of the 1969 models.

If you do get a warranty it might cost extra. And it may have a deductible feature, like auto insurance.

Insiders report the automakers would like to get rid of these warranties altogether. Some believe they'll do just that.

If the 5-50,000 warranty on power trains goes by the boards, the automakers would extend the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee that applies to the rest of the car to the power train—the engine, transmission, drive shaft, wheels and bearings.

Figuring in the debate on the 5-50,000 elimination with higher prices for the cars, might set off a loud howl by critics, particularly those in Congress.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors refuse any comment regarding elimination of the 5-50,000 warranty or a rise in prices, except to say they will announce their decisions when new models are introduced in early September.

Customers complain of periodic check-ups necessary to keep the 5-50,000 guarantee in force, and of having to get certificates of service should they get a check-up at a service station instead of a dealer.

Dealers complain check-ups cause jams in their service departments, inundate them with paper work and, additionally, that they're not always fully compensated by the companies for required repairs.

As late as 1960, the industry's warranty was for 90 days or 4,000 miles, whichever came earlier. This applied to the whole vehicle.

Ford came up in 1961 with a 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee on Lincoln Continentals, and made this standard on all Ford's 1963 models.

Chrysler and GM went to a 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty in 1961, then Chrysler rocked the industry in 1963 by introducing the 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty on the power train and continuing its 12-12,000 on the rest of the car. In 1967 Chrysler added the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee for the rest of the car.

American Motors and GM joined Ford in extending to the 24-24,000 coverage in 1963. These three got to the 5-year or 50,000-milepower-train warranty on 1967 models, continuing the 24-24,000 warranty on other components.

Lindsay Leaves Door Open to Later Candidacy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, by refusing to take part in an abortive rebellion against naming Spiro T. Agnew as Republican vice presidential nominee, has laid the groundwork for a future bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

Despite the views of some who tried to convince Lindsay to be the main challenger in a floor fight Thursday night, chances were slim for success against the personal choice of presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

One result would have been to sow resentment among party regulars, who played such an important role in assuring Nixon the nomination and in beating down the last-minute uprising against Agnew's selection, defeating Michigan Gov. George Romney 1,128 to 178.

Lindsay, who sat out the 1964 presidential campaign rather than support Barry Goldwater, was able by agreeing to give a second speech for Agnew to reassert his party regularity.

He also called for: —An end to the draft and substitution of a voluntary enlistment plan.

—Harnessing "the full spiritual and political resources of this nation to put an end to the shameful remnants of racism and poverty that still afflict our land."

—Systematic reduction of the nation's military-industrial complex.

Democrats bear a special burden, McGovern said, because of the party's 1964 declaration that "we seek no wider war."

McGovern's announcement was followed almost immediately by a statement from Pierre Salinger, press secretary to the late President John Kennedy and a leading figure in the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign, that he was on McGovern's side.

"I plan to support Sen. McGovern, to vote for him in Chicago and do whatever within my power to help him," Salinger's statement said.

"I speak only as an individual, but I believe that Sen. McGovern, more than any other man seeking the presidential nomination of my party, brings with him the idealism, the understanding and the compassion of the late Sen. Kennedy."

The Texas White House said there was no comment from President Johnson on McGovern's declaration.

McGovern Declares Chased by Police, Senath Entry in Race for Man Killed in Crash Demo Nomination

McGovern, 46, said those goals were "an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the divisions of our own society."

McGovern's move turned the contest for the Democratic nomination into a three-way race. Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota are also candidates.

McGovern asserted that "I make no claim to wear the Kennedy mantle." But his declaration was seen as a move to attract those who supported Robert Kennedy for the nomination.

Kennedy forces have not, for the most part, rallied behind another candidate since the senator's murder June 6.

In a formal statement declaring his candidacy, McGovern made frequent references to the Kennedy family.

Terming Robert Kennedy "the most talented and passionate political leader of this generation," McGovern said he would have been nominated, elected and become "one of our truly great presidents."

"But that is not to be," McGovern said. "Nor is there anyone else to play his role in American political life."

The senator said he had not sought the endorsement of Kennedy's widow, Ethel, or his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Kennedys, McGovern said, "are entitled to a moment away from the political pressures of 1968, and I would not anticipate anything other than their quiet understanding of what I seek to do."

McGovern pledged active support to either Humphrey or McCarthy if one of them is nominated, "not only for their own considerable merit but because there is nothing in Mr. Nixon's past record to indicate that he is a man of either peace or compassion."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the Republican nominee for president.

"I have heard talk about the 'new Nixon,'" McGovern said, "but the Bible warned us long ago about the danger of putting new wine into an old bottle."

The senator recalled his own longstanding opposition to the Vietnam conflict and said "that war must be ended now — not next year or the year following, but now."

In an apparent slap at Humphrey's support of the Johnson administration's war policies, McGovern said "it is our responsibility to take to the American people a platform and a leadership determined to reverse this error — not to rationalize it."

He also called for: —An end to the draft and substitution of a voluntary enlistment plan.

—Harnessing "the full spiritual and political resources of this nation to put an end to the shameful remnants of racism and poverty that still afflict our land."

—Systematic reduction of the nation's military-industrial complex.

McGovern, one of the first public figures to disagree vigorously with Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, has 26 delegates to the Democratic National Convention which will be held in Miami Beach, Fla., Sept. 12-15.

They are the votes of the South Dakota delegation which agreed to back McGovern last month during a short-lived boomlet for his active candidacy. Kennedy, a close friend and Senate ally of McGovern's, had won the votes in the state primary.

McGovern said then he was flattered by the move, but realized it was just a way of keeping the delegation together. He said he still intended to seek reelection to the Senate and would campaign only for that office.

Two weeks ago he escalated his national position slightly by saying he would let his name be used as a rallying point for any uncommitted delegates. He said he agreed to this during a conversation with former Kennedy aide Theodore Sorensen.

At the time he was killed, Kennedy had committed to him more than 300 delegates to the convention, opening Aug. 26 at Chicago.

Much of that force has remained uncommitted with only a few reported shifting to either Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The most recent Associated Press poll of Democratic convention delegates showed 727 pledged to Vice President Humphrey; 416 to McCarthy; and 801 to uncommitted or pledged to favorite sons.

Total needed for nomination is 1,312.

McGovern has headed the "Committee for a Democratic Convention," which recently has been working on a Vietnam peace proposal for the Democratic platform. The committee includes several Kennedy supporters and has worked along with some McCarthy backers.

McGovern faces a tough reelection campaign in his own state this November and stayed neutral in the South Dakota primary election.

McGovern won his first Senate term in 1962 by a scant 50.1 per cent of the vote in a traditionally Republican state.

Until 1963 he taught at Dakota Wesleyan University. He left the classroom that year to become head of the state party.

He unseated a Republican in 1966 to win a House seat and was re-elected two years later. In 1960, however, he failed in a bid to unseat Sen. Karl Mundt and served two years as food for peace director in the Kennedy administration before returning to state politics.

A spokesman for the institute, added however, that some instances have been reported of people surviving "many" attacks, even beyond six. But the spokesman said he was unable to document any.

Series of Accidents Kill 10, Injure Scores

A series of accidents Friday, including the crash of an Air Force Flying Boxcar, a train wreck and two bus accidents, have caused passenger deaths and scores of injuries across the nation.

The combined toll today stood at 10 dead and more than 180 injured in six unrelated mishaps.

Six Air Force reservists were killed when the C119 Flying Boxcar on a training flight crashed landed in a pasture shortly after taking off from Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington, Ohio.

The crew of four and 21 other reservists passengers survived. The reservists, all from the southwestern Ohio area, were midway through their annual two-week summer training program and were en route to Otis AFB Mass.

Near Middletown, Ohio, a teen-age motorist was killed and more than 100 train passengers shaken up or injured when a station wagon struck the engine of a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train.

Five cars, including three passenger coaches, were derailed. Warren County Sheriff Byron Kennard estimated there were more than 100 passengers on the Cincinnati to Detroit train.

The injured were taken to Middletown Hospital where all were treated and released.

Near Cobleskill, N.Y., a Greyhound bus with 38 persons aboard overturned during a heavy rainstorm killing a teenage girl and injuring the others. Nine persons were hospitalized.

State police could give no immediate cause for the accident. Witnesses said the bus was on a straightaway when it fishtailed, struck a guardrail, skidded sideways and then flipped over on the driver's side. In Texas a woman passenger died and 34 other persons were injured when a cross-country bus skidded across rain-swept U.S. 87 and overturned.

The accident happened three miles south of Tulsa in the Texas panhandle while the bus, operated by Texas, New Mexico & Oklahoma Coaches, was enroute from Denver, Colo., to San Antonio, Tex.

In Idaho a pilot was killed when his converted torpedo-bomber crashed as he bore into a smoke haze to drop chemicals on a forest fire about 50 miles northeast of Boise.

And in Pine Mountain, Ga., six persons including U.S. Rep. Richard L. Roudebush R-Ind., and his wife were injured when their small plane crashed while attempting to land at the fish-tailed, struck a guardrail, skidded sideways and then

James Gentry, 22, Senath, was dead on arrival at Dunklin County Memorial hospital, following an accident today at 1 a.m., on highway 25, one half mile south of Kennett.

He was being chased by Kennett police when he lost control of his speeding car, ran off the road, traveled 630 feet along a ditch before striking a tree, the state patrol reported.

The body was taken to McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

One person was injured today at 1:05 a.m. at the intersection of Interstate 55 and 61, three miles south of New Madrid.

A 1965 Ford, driven by Robert Huddleston, 25, Pioneer, La., had stopped at a stop sign, when his car was struck in the rear by a 1968 Chevrolet, driven by John Jimerson, 30, Dewitt, Ark.

Louann Reeves, 16, Oak Grove, La., passenger in the Ford, received a bruised arm and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

Jimerson was arrested on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Mary Winchester, 35, Malden, received a fractured hip, today at 1:50 a.m. on the Township road, one mile north of the Malden airbase.

She was a passenger in a 1961 Ford station wagon, driven by Leo Winchester, 37, Malden airbase, when the station wagon ran off the road and struck an unidentified parked 1963 Oldsmobile in the rear.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A Piedmont Airlines plane with 37 aboard crashed in flames while trying to land at Charleston's fog-covered mountain airport today.

First reports indicated 32 were killed with three of five known survivors termed "in very critical condition."

Charleston Piedmont agent William Hanson said the plane — Flight 230 — originated in Louisville, Ky., and stopped in Cincinnati before flying on to Charleston. It was due in Virginia at Roanoke, Richmond and Newport News before terminating at Norfolk.

The twin-engine plane crashed into the hilltop about 50 yards before reaching the runway, skidded about 200 yards and flipped over in flames. Air National Guardsman, stationed at an armory at the airport three miles northeast of Charleston, rushed to the scene to cover the plane with firefighting foam to prevent further fire.

The plane carried a crew of three in addition to its 34 passengers. No one was reported leaving the wreckage.

Charles General Hospital reported receiving six bodies and two injured persons while others were taken to Charleston Memorial Hospital. Ted Ambrecht, vice president of a Charleston department store, was waiting to take off in his private plane when the Piedmont plane crashed.

He said neither he nor his pilot could see it because of the fog cover "but all of a sudden, there was just a whumph."

They looked out their plane's windows, he said, and saw flaming wreckage hurtling in all directions.

The plane was coming in over the airport's guide system — a long series of lights to help pilots as they approach the runways—but it crashed short of the plateau.

A temporary morgue was set up at the National Guard headquarters at the airport but reports on the number of dead taken there were sketchy.

The plane had landed at Cincinnati, Ohio before making its scheduled stop at Charleston. It was then due at several points in Virginia — Roanoke, Richmond, Newport News and Norfolk.

Nixon, Agnew Fly to LBJ Ranch Briefing

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the Republican choice for vice president, was at Nixon's side as the GOP nominee's party took off. The two will pay a joint call on Johnson at the LBJ ranch in Texas.

Nixon said they would receive a Vietnam briefing from Cyrus R. Vance, deputy U.S. negotiator in the Paris peace talks.

The Republican nominee said he and Johnson had talked by telephone and agreed that neither the GOP ticket nor the Democratic administration would attempt to use the Vietnam negotiations as political ammunition.

Nixon said it amounted to a gentlemen's agreement. Although Nixon said he would do nothing to undercut the peace talks he added this would not remove the Vietnam war as a major campaign issue.

The Republican nominee was leaving with convention delegates still troubled over his decision to put Agnew in the vice presidential spot on the ticket.

"There is some real disagreement in the Republican party," Nixon said. "But not nearly as much as there is in the Democratic party."

Butler County School Plan Disapproved

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Dale M. Thompson of Kansas City was elected president of the State Board of Education Friday succeeding Jack Webster of Springfield.

Mrs. Treva Davis of St. Joseph was chosen vice president. Thompson is chairman of the board of City Bond and Mortgage Co. and president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

In other action Friday the board approved a school district reorganization plan to enlarge the Sumnersville R-II district in Texas County.

Two plans from Howell County and Butler County were disapproved and returned to the county boards of education for further study.

The Summer Recreation committee, will give a final report on recreation activities, at a meeting in the city administration building, 316 South Kingshighway, Friday at 4 p.m., City Manager W. Raymont Miller announces.

Whittle Wins Post

NEW MADRID—Herbert Van Whittle of Canolau was elected Democratic committeeman from West Township by two votes.

He defeated Earlin Wrathe of Canolau, 153-151. Absentee votes were counted Friday.

In Tuesday's primary election Whittle polled 139 votes to Wrathe's 132.

Whittle received 14 absentee votes to Wrathe's 19.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:

Well in our opinion the Republicans once again "craped in the mess kit" when they nominated Nixon. He has appeal to the regular politicians but to the ordinary citizen he is just a many times defeated politician.

No hero, no outstanding citizen for outstanding service, just an ex-bird dog for Eisenhower.

We predict that the Democrats could win with Ethical Ed even.

For centuries it has been known that we'd have the poor with us always, but since L.B.J. we know how expensive it will be.

Sad but true: What the younger generation is coming to is probably no worse than that from which it came.

Not being a steel company stock holder and know nothing about the market could it be that President Johnson knows that the profits of the steel company are great enough to absorb the recent labor raises that were granted the steel unions?

If the cost of making steel jobs high enough of course consumers will buy imported steel if they can give money.

THE NIXON NOMINATION

By the time Richard M. Nixon was nominated at Miami Beach this morning the high polish of his political engineering, which made it all seem so inevitable, tended to obscure the real marvel of the Republican party's choice.

Here was a man who had not won an election on his own for 18 years, who had incurred political liabilities which made him the Democrat's favorite candidate, who was weakest where the crucial votes were, who had renounced his career after ignominious defeat in his own state and then changed states, a man without a constituency and without executive experience.

Why should the Republicans prefer such a man to a Governor of New York who had thoroughly demonstrated special competence in the urban arena of our national crisis, and who offered the fresh ideas, breadth of outlook and capacity for skilled innovation which millions of Democrats and independents are looking for?

Mr. Nixon himself put his finger on the answer when he said he moved into a vacuum of party leadership after the Goldwater debacle of 1964. The question is why there was a vacuum-why a party which had begun to develop able leadership at the local and state levels developed so little at the national level.

We suspect the answer has something to do with the party's hard resistance to new ideas and its steady refusal to accept the facts of modern life. Such acceptance as it does come to is usually 20 years late. Meanwhile, progressives who try to work within the Republican party are contained and isolated until they give up or, like Gov. Rockefeller, are driven out.

After Goldwater a vacuum did exist and Mr. Nixon filled it by making himself useful to the party managers, performing so many services in so many states that when the time came to collect his debts he could not be gainsaid. The party hierarchs fell comfortable with him. He does not disturb them, he tells them what they want to hear, and he convinces them that he is "safe."

Furthermore, Mr. Nixon has developed the art of political acceptability, of image-making, of technical manipulation, to a high pitch. He was able to boast, in his moment of triumph, that he had conducted his long campaign for the nomination (which we think began in 1962) without making a single mistake. And so he won on the first ballot, as he had to do, without resorting to the divisive tactics that would have been necessary to break up the favoriteson delegations and bludgeon the waverers. It was indeed a masterful performance and he is entitled to take pride in it.

The tactics that win a nomination are not, of course, those that win an election, and Mr. Nixon's problem will be quite different between now and November. It is possible that "his time has come," as everybody was telling everybody on the convention floor, and that the deep unrest that has manifested itself in both parties will take the form of electing anybody but a Democrat this fall.

Yet this unrest has something to do with a desire for change, and the basic reason for Mr. Nixon's nomination was a serene confidence on the part of the delegates that change is precisely what he does not stand for. If this satisfied the Republican delegates, it is by no means certain that it will safely the country.

As always throughout his career, Mr. Nixon's principal problem will be credibility, at a time when the country is thoroughly disenchanted with the lack of credibility of the Johnson Administration. The old Nixon constantly stands in the light of the new Nixon. When he suddenly becomes a foe of the Vietnam war, for example, how can the people account for the fact that he was one of the original authors of our intervention, and an enthusiastic supporter of military escalation until the people turned so massively against it?

There is no doubt that the Republican party wanted Mr. Nixon, how wise it was to insist on him remains to be seen. We expect that the surging public demand for fundamental political change, particularly among young people, will now be redoubled within the Democratic party. Will the old politics be as successful in repelling the onslaught at Chicago as it was in Miami Beach? Of one thing we feel certain - that the movement which has found expression in the campaigns for Gov. Rockefeller and Senator McCarthy is not going to fade away. If both parties close their doors to change, the advocates of a new foreign policy and a new social conscience will be driven to seek outside the system what they cannot achieve within it.

Any man who can keep his mouth shut should be considered wise.

Wryly, Phil Barkett tells of the young mother who was pushing her baby around in the supermarket pram, when a stranger paused and exclaimed:

Occasionally love affairs drag on so long that Cupid disappears and Father Time takes his place.

Don't make yourself unpopular by having such a good memory that your friends are afraid to tell lies to you.

This has been an unpredictable presidential election year.

Those, who announced that they wouldn't run, changed their mind and ran.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who was running, pulled out because the polls gave him no chance of winning before his ballot appeal was well tested.

President Lyndon B. Johnson fooled everyone by announcing that he wouldn't run.

Against this background it may be foolish to predict that the Vietnam war will not be a major debatable issue in the campaign.

No one knows what a candidate will do or say in an effort to win.

No one knows what will happen in either Vietnam or at the Paris peace talks between now and November.

But if Hubert Humphrey is the Democratic presidential nominee it appears likely now that Vietnam won't be a top discussion issue.

It is likely that riots, crime, taxes, tight money, poverty, inflation and other pressing domestic pocketbook issues will be what Republican Presidential Nominee Richard Nixon and Humphrey will be discussing the most.

And who in 1964 would have expected Nixon to have been the 1968 G.O.P. standard bearer on any ballot let alone the first?

Both Nixon and Humphrey may be expected to be discreet about Vietnam because of the experience they both have had watching the administration wheels turn as vice presidents.

Nixon had been a hawk. He has been as much of a hawk as Johnson perhaps a bit more. Of course, he might not have undertaken every course that Johnson took and he can now exercise hindsight. He might have gone much further in the effort to achieve a military victory.

Humphrey is trying valiantly to be what he describes as "his own man" but he cannot seriously challenge the Johnson policies in which he was a top administration leader. Humphrey cannot be expected to propose more than minor alternations in Vietnam war policy.

It's also a good question how each will conduct the war if elected. Taking the responsibility and talking about it are two different things.

In the 1964 presidential campaign, Republican Nominee Barry Goldwater talked like a hawk, Johnson like a dove.

In office, Johnson performed like a hawk.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Unruh maneuvering California delegation to McCarthy; all pro-Humphrey California congressmen off delegate list; Unruh eyes governorship in 1970

WASHINGTON - A skillful move by which Sen. Eugene McCarthy will take over part of the huge 174-vote California delegation, largest at the Democratic convention, is being planned by Jesse Unruh, speaker of the California assembly. He has already set up most of his secret maneuver and is scheduled to apply the finishing touches at a delegation caucus today.

What this means is that California, which votes early in the roll call of states at Chicago, will almost 174 votes for McCarthy and could start a psychological trend against Vice President Humphrey.

To put across this maneuver, speaker Unruh has made a deal with the leftist California Democratic council, with which he has always been at odds, to support him for governor in 1970. In return he has stacked the Democratic delegation with McCarthy supporters and eased out most of those for Vice President Humphrey.

He has even barred all California congressmen except three who are strong for McCarthy. Such an old-timer as Rep. Cecil King, who has served longer in congress than any other Californian, was dropped, together with Rep. Chet Holifield, new dean of the California delegation of congressmen. At a recent meeting of California Democrats in Washington with speaker Unruh, Holifield protested that he had attended every Democratic convention as a delegate since he had been in congress. It made no difference. Holifield is for Humphrey and he was barred.

Even such distinguished Democrats as Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, ex-governor, was excluded from the delegation, together with veteran congressmen John Moss, B. F. Sisk, George Miller, Lionel Van DeBuren, and every other California congressman except three who are strong for McCarthy.

DELEGATION-- Assemblyman Greene went on to name some of the delegates, including Roosevelt Grier, the giant Negro football player who tackled Sirhan Sirhan after the Robert F.
Kennedy assassination; and Rafael Johnson, the famous Negro Olympic decathlon champion, also a Kennedy bodyguard.

Another Humphrey supporter who was eulogized of the California delegation is Mrs. Florence E. Song of Monterey park, who had resigned on condition that her husband, a state senator, be named a delegate in her place.

Speaker Unruh announced her resignation, however, and did not appoint her husband in her place. There was good reason for barring either of the songs, for their son-in-law Charles Winner is a Humphrey campaign manager.

Another Humphrey delegate who found himself in the list of those who have resigned is Thomas Consiglio of Downey, an official in the United Steelworkers.

At a recent meeting of labor leaders with Vice President Humphrey, he told HHH: "I'm probably the only delegate in this meeting who will be in Chicago to vote for you."

Yet Consiglio woke up the other morning to read in the newspaper that he had resigned as a delegate to the convention.
Queried by this column over the phone, Consiglio said that some time ago, when Bobby Kennedy was still alive, he had resigned because he was a Humphrey man and he wanted peace to prevail in the California delegation. Apparently he had forgotten this when he told Vice President Humphrey recently that he was a delegate. But the all-remembering Jesse Unruh hadn't forgotten. Consiglio's resignation has been officially accepted. The California delegation to Chicago will cast about 166 votes for McCarthy, eight votes for Hubert, and the conservative Unruh in turn will give Liberal-Democratic support to become governor of California.

The average wage in Czechoslovakia today is 1,600 crowns a month. And what is a crown worth? The foreigner residing here gets 14 to the dollar. The tourist gets 16. The black market will pay you 30.

But any Czech citizen lucky enough to get a dollar is given only eight crowns by the government bank.

The cab driver explains that his Russian-made taxi, about the size of a Ford Falcon, cost him 50,000 crowns. That's two and one-half years of wages for the average man.

SO, AS IN all the satellites, what was advertised as the key to universal prosperity has only opened the door to universal poverty. The citizens who were told they would own everything $21 if it's double time. And if he own next to nothing. What was once one of the most prosperous nations in Europe, a land of gifted, energetic people, cannot generate the capital to keep its old buildings in repair.

The very failure of the bureaucracy tends to perpetuate its power. As industry grows less efficient, the ability to find markets outside the Communist bloc diminishes. Who, given a choice including an Opel, a Volkswagen and a Fiat, would buy a Skoda? Czechoslovakia depends upon Russia for 98% of its petroleum. This is the hand upon the throat. For what can Czechoslovakia trade for Western oil?

STILL, tourists from other satellite countries travel to Czechoslovakia because it is regarded as "advanced." And the old hotels and rooming houses are jammed with Germans, for here is where families split between East and West Germany may meet. And over the land there lies an air of great expectation and hope.

If the Red satchels fail to cancel the fragile and still hesitant "new freedom" there is belief that the special Czechoslovak Communist Party Congress called for September will oust the Moscow-dominated members of the Central Committee and strengthen the pro-Czech group in the Presidium. The hope? Further "revisions," but only within the framework of the Communist apparatus. The Dubcek government still swears fealty to the Warsaw Pact and adheres to the anti-American line.

TO TEST the anti-Americanism of the street, I put on my "American costume."
I appear as a sort of comic opera Hoot Gibson in a broad-brimmed hat, a Western shirt and a bolo tie with an arrowhead. Everywhere I am met with exaggerated politeness.

The man on the walk down from Prague Castle pauses to give me directions and then adds, gratuitously, "Another Budapest? The time is past.
They wouldn't dare!"

And he points to a rude sign lettered on a wall:
"Democracy!"

about their husbands.

The elderly gentleman was nearing eight but refused to accept his loss of sexual desire and stamina. He consulted with his doctor.

The doctor was amused and asked "Why should you be so concerned? It's expected at your age."

"But," pursued the older,
"a friend of mine who is eighty-five says he makes love to his wife every night."

The doctor smiled. "Well, can't you say the same thing?"

He: What's the matter? Don't you love me any more?

She: Of course I do. I'm just resting, that's all.

A couple on a blind date brand names) always cost less.

He noted that the notion that the forces affecting the prices of generic products are different spokesman declared, "Neither generic drugs nor trademarked drugs are any better than the demonstrated reliability of their manufacturer."

In the case of his company, he said the price index for all of its products declined from 102.6 in 1955 to 90.1 in 1966-using 1957-59 prices as a base with an index of 100. In the same period, the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer's price index for all items rose from 93.3 to 113.1. Thus, product prices of leading drug firms have clearly run counter to the general inflationary trend.

Those who are quick to criticize the system of providing medicines in this country might well note the drug spokesman's concluding comment on that system: "We know that is not perfect-and yet it has been the means of sparing the American people much pain and suffering and providing them with better health and longer life. It is truly a remarkable system."

If you want people to know where you stand, don't change your socks.

A LIFESAVING RECORD
A Senate subcommittee has been holding hearings on the U.S. drug industry. These hearings have dragged along for months, and press reports have recorded the testimony of witnesses who have filled pages of the records with the alleged faults of the industry. It is therefore refreshing to read the testimony of a spokesman for one of the major drug firms who tells of some of the achievements of his company and the industry. Among other things, he pointed out that it has been estimated that nearly 7 million Americans living today would be dead if the nation's mortality rate had remained at the 1937 level. The family of miracle drugs produced by the nation's leading drug firms played no small part in their survival.

So far as the price of drugs is concerned, the spokesman denied that generic medicines

Couple Married

CHARLESTON -- Miss Faye Feozor and Jay Bledsoe were married July 28 at the Gravel Ridge Baptist church with the Rev. J. E. Cooper officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The former Miss Feozor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Feozor, route one, Charleston, Bledsoe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bledsoe, 908 Rodney Charleston.

The church was decorated with two large baskets of white gladioli, trimmed in blue. Mrs. J. E. Cooper provided the organ music for the ceremony.

John Bledsoe, brother of the groom, served as best man.

A reception was held in the dining hall of the church, immediately following the ceremony. The reception table was overlaid with a white linen cloth with a centerpiece of white lilies. The two-tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Ruth Ann Feozor, sister-in-law of the bride, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Dianna Chambers, served the punch. Miss Janie Russell, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register.

The couple is living at 226 Moore St. in Sikeston. Bledsoe is employed at Malone and Hyde at Sikeston.

Patti Belk Pledges Vows with Robert Gosche

BENTON - Miss Patti Belk, Cecelia Graff.

The home of Mrs. Joe Lee Michael of Benton, married Robert Gosche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gosche of Chaffee July 20 at the New Hamburg St. Lawrence church.

The Rev. Fr. Clem Imberger performed the double ring ceremony before an altar appointed on each side with baskets of carnations and pompons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white chiffon overlaid with lace. A semi-crown of lace, pearls, and crystals held her bouffant veil of illusion. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations and lilies of the valley surrounding a purple-throated orchid.

Miss Sandra Belk, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of blue satin over lace and carried a bouquet of blue carnations and pompons. Her noseup veil was secured with a blue satin bow.

Jim Gosche, the groom's brother, served as best man. Ushers were Larry Gosche and Larry Uelsmann.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the parish hall. It was decorated with white and blue paper streamers and wedding bells. The bride's table, covered in white, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake and appointed at each side with candles. Serving were the Misses Margie Gosche and Shari Uelsmann. Miss Debi Lawrence was at the guest book.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Thomas W. Kelly high school. The groom, also a 1968 graduate of Kelly, is employed on his father's farm near Chaffee where the couple is living. He will attend Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau in the fall majoring in agriculture and business.

Big Red Flatten Steelers 24-7

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Following last night's 24-7 exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers, St. Louis Cardinals quarterback Jim Ray Hart said that he is a better player for his one season of mistakes, and that the team is better for an off-season of controversy.

The evidence offered by Hart was the score, although Bill Austin, St. Louis head coach, said the scoreboard only indicated the shape the Steelers are in. Hart fired two touchdown passes and engineered a third ball control drive for another score. He hit on nine of his 16 passes in the first half before giving way to Charley Johnson who worked through the second half.

"I'm much more relaxed out there," Hart said. "I just feel more confident, maybe a little cocky. I think I learned from my mistakes last year."

Last year there were 30 Hart mistakes intercepted. Another two interceptions were thrown by Hart in the St. Louis game.

Austin counted more than two mistakes in the game, however, saying, "We dropped about five interceptions." He added, "He threw the ball right into our hands."

Austin was sour on several areas in the St. Louis performance. "He didn't block anybody," he complained. "Our quarterbacks didn't throw the ball well. We didn't have enough scrimmaging in training camp, and it looked like it. I know they are better, but there was nothing to tell me that tonight."

The lone Pittsburgh touchdown came when Kent Nix hit Roy Jefferson on a 16-yarder. Hart saw the victory in

The man who finished second in two of the greatest sprint car races ever seen at the Missouri State Fair will be back again this year. And Gordon Woolley asserts that this time it'll be as a winner.

The event of course is the 15th Annual Missouri Futurity, a 50-lap classic over the half-mile dirt oval. The race is one of two for sprint cars among five auto racing events during the exposition.

In 1963 Woolley, en route to that year's IMCA championship, had fought his way up from last spot to grasp the lead from Al Unser on the 49th lap. But coming out of the fourth turn on the final circuit with Al right behind, Gordon's engine failed. Al won by a car-length.

In 1966, Woolley trailed Sedalia's own Bill Utz the last 15 miles of the event, using every bit of his hard-won knowledge in an effort to pass, but to no avail. Utz was in front, but barely, at the finish. Incidentally, he to, will be back seeking a second win this year.

Woolley, 43, who began racing modifieds in 1946 in his home town of Waco, Texas, this year will drive the brand new Chevy-powered sprinter owned by Herman and Charles Bellmore of Dallas. He terms it the best car he's ever driven-and in his career he's driven the tops.

"We've got all the handling problems sorted out; we've got three engines; and I know the track like the back of my hand," he said. "I really think that this is going to be my year to win it-and I've been after it for a long time."

The Missouri State Fair sprint car opener Saturday, Aug. 17, will launch a 10-race Midwest campaign for Woolley. Then will come the Futurity-the big one-on Sunday morning, Aug. 25.

Also entered are Benny Rapp, Toledo, Ohio; Norm Paul, Martinez, Calif.; Bill Utz, Sedalia; Bob Herring, Denver, Colo.; and many others.

The 15th Annual Missouri Modified Championships will be held Saturday, Aug. 17 and Aug. 23. First race will be at 8:00 p.m. IMCA late model stock cars will be held Aug. 18 Saturday afternoon, and a double-header Saturday afternoon and night, Aug. 24.

The St. Louis County Department of Parks and Recreation and The Meramec River Canoe Club will present the fourth annual Meramec River Canoe Races at Times Beach, two miles east of Eureka and 16 miles west of Lindbergh Blvd. on Hwy. 66, Saturday and Sunday, August 17th and 18th. Ron Kloepper, from St. Louis will defend his National Poling title for the second year in a row. Helen Denzel from Fenton, Western Division Women's Champion, will race in the Women's Division and Mike Guenther from Des Peres, Missouri's bid for the Olympic Canoe Team will also compete before he travels to the Olympic Canoe Trials in Los Angeles.

The National Poling Championship, the one mile Sprint, and the finish of the 15 mile marathon may all be viewed from Times Beach.

A new event will be held this year in conjunction with the other races to interest new paddlers in the sport. This event is called the Pleasure Class and will be open to entry for only men, women and teenagers who have never placed in a canoe race. This event will only permit standard type aluminum canoes and will not allow racing shells, giving all new paddlers an equal chance to compete.

Free Camping will be available at West Tyson Park, 200 yards east of the race site. Movies on canoeing will be shown on the gravel bar at 8:30 p.m. Saturday evening. Saturday's events begin at 1 p.m. and continue until 6 p.m. Sunday the events start at 10:30 a.m. and will wind up with the National Poling Championship at 1 p.m.

GROUND ACTION is big this season with major leaguers biting the dust for various reasons. Oakland catcher Phil Roof (left) lunges to tag a runner while the Pirates' Maury Wills (right) makes a belly landing after an attempted pickoff. At top, Dave Nelson of Cleveland grimaces after being hit by throw while sliding into base.

Hard times for the St. Louis Cardinals are the shutouts Bob Gibson pitches because he has to. Happiness for the New York Mets is a high pop fly in Candlestick Park. The Cardinals scored just one run for the second game in a row Friday night, but Gibson made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over Atlanta that ran his winning streak to 13 games and broke a club shutout mark.

Roger Maris, whose 11th inning double gave the National League leaders a 1-0 nod over Cincinnati Thursday night, drove in the only run again with a third inning single.

The Mets beat San Francisco's Juan Marichal 5-4 when third baseman Jim Davenport dropped Cleon Jones' two-out pop in the ninth as the tying and winning runs scored. It was only the Mets' second victory over Marichal in 22 lifetime decisions.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati whipped the Chicago Cubs 7-3; Houston edged Pittsburgh 2-1 on Jim Wynn's two-run double in the ninth and Ricardo Joseph drove in all the Philadelphia runs in a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles.

Gibson, 16-5, scattered four hits on the way to his ninth shutout of the year and a career total of 34, one more than the at Farris field. The bats made the noise in the second match, especially Jim Saulters.

Ilmo - Scott City and the National League Aces moved into the championship bracket last night. Morley and Cairo moved into the consolation clash set for 7 p.m. tonight after losing. Morley failed to score against I-SC's V. Schaefer and lost 4-0. Cairo failed to cool off the hot bat of Saulters, who smashed two home runs, both in a nine-run fifth inning that powered the Aces to an 11-3 victory.

I-SC and the Aces meet tonight at 9 p.m. for the tournament title.

Ilmo - Scott City broke a scoreless game open with a run in the third inning and then added tallies in the fourth and fifth innings while V. Schaefer held Morley scoreless and hitless for five innings. Morley collecting its lone hit in the fifth inning by Cook.

I-SC pounded out five hits, including two doubles. The first drove in Brooks for the lead and what proved to be the winning run.

Cairo grabbed an early 4-0 lead and was breezing along through four innings before the Aces broke the scoring barrier with a pair of runs in the fourth inning. It then exploded in the fifth for nine runs.

The Aces scored by seven hits in tallying its 11 runs, but capitalized on four bases on balls and three extra base hits in its final two innings.

The beautiful lady in blue (left) is wearing denim, cut on the bias with a fitted bodice, cowl neckline and full circular skirt. The evening gown is trimmed at the hemline with Indian embroidery. This design is by Ruth Graves of Gussie and Becky. Coat dress (right) is in denim check with shoulder detailing to give a cape effect. Large marble buttons at the shoulder and down the front give added eye appeal to this fashion by Hazel Blackman of The Tree House.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Whatever your social schedule, chances are you can don your denims and be completely with the fashion "in" crowd this fall. That was the "sock it to 'em" message the Denim Council brought to the fashion press at its special preview showing of new fall-winter '68 styles.

One show-stopper was a beautifully molded bias-cut evening gown in light blue with a full circular skirt, cowl neckline in front and V-neck in the back. An Indian motif edged the hem.

There was a South American look, too, in a three-piece hooded plaid poncho with matching long-sleeve jacket and pants.

Knickerbockers showed up in a jaunty plaid paired with a cutaway jacket and blue cotton sleeveless blouse.

Bright-red denim shirt dresses, gay bold-copper plaid coat dresses and even denim gowns for evening took their fashion bows.

The sneak preview proved that many of our top designers are using denim and that the fabric is still fashion's darling.

BRIGHT AND BULKY is the look of this tweed suit seen in New York as part of a fall-winter ready-to-wear collection by Lanvin of Paris.

Child Can Overcome Bad Environment at Home

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a teenager who wanted to know what to do about parents who were always lashing it up. You suggested Alateen for the boy, a national organization for teenagers who must live with alcoholics.

Do you know of an organization for teenagers whose parents hate each other? Since I was a child all I can remember is fighting and name calling followed by days of no conversation and passing notes back and forth through us kids.

Last year Dad told Mom he was fed up with living in a pig pen and he was filing for divorce. Mom took a bottle of sleeping pills and almost died. Now every time they fight and Dad says something about a divorce, Mom threatens to kill herself.

What kind of a life do you think this is for a teenager? Is there any hope for me? — HOLLY

Dear Ed: Put the blame where it belongs — on your wife. Nobody drags her to her brothers' place and holds a gun to her head while she washes, irons, scrubs and cooks.

It sounds as if the woman is suffering from guilt feelings. She may be trying to compensate for real or imaginary ways in which she failed her mother during her lifetime. It's one thing to be helpful, but her behavior is much too compulsive to be pure good-heartedness. Suggest professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much in love with John and he with me. We had a foolish argument and I told him to get out of my life for good. He took me at my word and I am heartbroken. John is now dating my best friend, Renee. I pretend I am happy for her but it is eating me up alive.

Renee tells me everything John says and I could die when I hear those tender phrases that were once meant for me. Renee is mad about John and she keeps asking for advice on how to land him.

I used to laugh at people who had to write to Ann Landers but I'm right in line with the rest of the blunders. Please tell me how to get him back. — FOOL OF THE YEAR

Give John a call and tell him you're sorry. You have nothing to lose but a dime. And you might get your guy back.

Give in or lose him...when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 60 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Because the "Daily Sikeston Standard" continues to be at the center of communication in Sikeston, the City Summer Recreation Committee takes this way to extend public thanks to the Girl Scouts in Troop 13 who planned, promoted, and provided the entire leadership for two days of day-camping at Clayton Park for approximately 80 Sikeston girls who are not in scouting.

At the request of the City Recreation Committee, these fourteen Girl Scouts and their leader, Mrs. John Sargent, directed games, crafts, nature fun and a noon meal as the Community Service Project: Patricia Beck, Diane Queterous, Patty Bush, Kathy Britt, Carolyn Greene, Jan Sargent, Linda Condit, Marki Ford, Sheila Clinton, Charlene Freeman, Dennis Leavis, Phyllis Lair, Beverly Ingram, Susan Dawson. The service these girls performed reflects admirably upon their Girl Scout training and their own personal citizenship.

Lt. Henry Clay Lewis Wounded in Battle

August 10, 1918
Lt. Henry Clay Lewis, Jr., of Caruthersville, was wounded in battle on July 22nd and it now in a hospital recovering from his wounds, according to a message received by his father in that city. However, his wounds are not reported as serious.

Company K, the Sikeston company of the 140th Infantry, is now on the front in France. Its location is probably near the Swiss border, which part of the battle front has been comparatively quiet.

Miss Jewell Tyler and Olif Allen surprised their many friends last Sunday by going to Morehouse in company with Mr. and Mrs. Hez Ozmert of Salcedo, and being married.

If You Were the Judge

No One Should Stand Near Swinging Golfer

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.

Perry went golfing with a foursome that was awesome. A female member of the group, a beginner, didn't even know how to hold a caddy. Her husband spent more time digging worms with his golf club than hitting the ball. And, George, the third member of the group, was half loaded. He didn't have to wait until the next morning, however, for his headache. As Perry teed off, he wacked George on the head with his follow through. And, for the rest of the afternoon, George heard birdies instead of getting them.

The next day, George sued Perry for the knob on his noggin.

"He was a wooden headed driver," George told the judge. "I could have been killed. He should have looked behind him before swinging."

"Nonsense," was Perry's answer. "When a golfer is about to tee off, he's only required to look in front. That's where the action is."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Perry responsible for clobbering George on the head?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that it is common knowledge that no one should stand behind a golfer when he swings; that he should retreat to safety away from the firing line.

The Teenage Nomix club met at the Kenneth Riddle Home, 324 Broadway.

Present were Phillip Hunott, Allen Figley, Bobby Melton, Kenny Riddle, members, and Larry Turnage, a visitor.

President Figley presided. Treasurer Russell Frohawk, an adult sponsor, presented awards for the best arranged coin collections. First prize, a trophy, was won by Figley; second, a flash magnifier, Riddle, and third, a plaque, Melton.

Any boy, 12 to 15 years old, is invited to join. The next meeting will be Aug. 29 at the Riddle home.

Sponsors are Mrs. Edward Sanders, Mrs. Kenneth Riddle, Kenneth Riddle and Frohawk.

Svetlana Writes Disavowal of Return to Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva has written a friend that she burned her Soviet passport last summer "so that no one could ever get the idea" that she might return to Moscow, the New York Times said today.

The story said the 43-year-old daughter of Joseph Stalin indicated that she intended to seek United States citizenship.

The story also said in part: "In an intense personal and sometimes caustically witty letter," Mrs. Alliluyeva vowed she would never return to the Soviet Union, a "land of uninterrupted pain and trauma" for which, she said, she felt none of the nostalgia that Russians living abroad often develop for their homeland.

Writing with affection about friendships she has formed with American families in Princeton, N.J., where she lives, she said:

Chile Hit Hard by Drought

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's worst drought in a century is taking an increasing toll as hoped-for August rains fail to materialize.

Its gravest effects may come next year as underground water tables decline.

President Eduardo Frei calls the drought "a true national catastrophe" and likens its effects to those of an earthquake.

Frei's administration has asked for U.S. aid including food for 6,000 families.

Its pinch in agricultural, industrial and electrical production. The inflation-plagued economy—prices rose 22 per cent in the first seven months this year—faces further weakening.

Some social and economic reforms of Frei's Christian Democratic government may have to be shelved and funds diverted to drought relief.

Normally August is Chile's wettest month, but as the winter season below the equator wanes, rainfall decreases 75 per cent in agricultural areas. In the three farming provinces around this capital city, rainfall is off 90 per cent.

Snow pack reserves in the High Andes in the nation's center are far below normal.

Livestock has been particularly hard hit. Frei said last month that Chile has lost 300,000 lambs to the drought. To help cattle producers, the government has let them ship their stocks free by rail to southern Chile where forage is available.

Frei's administration already has ordered cuts in consumption of water and electricity. More are on the way.

As an example, downtown Santiago soon may be without neon advertising signs and radio and television stations may limit transmission hours to save electricity.

Declining hydroelectric production endangers the vital output of copper, particularly at the rich El Teniente mine 65 miles south of Santiago.

So far Chile's Marxist parties including its strong Communist organizations have called for national unity in face of the drought.

"Before the drought, all Chileans are obligated to collaborate," says a recent edition of the Marxist publication Plan.

"The real crunch of the drought will be felt next year," says one U.S. observer.

"Underground water tables will be down and even rains in the next few months will not help much to replenish them."

To help fight the drought, Chile has asked the United States for $2.7 million in well-digging equipment, electric pumps, tank trucks and refrigeration equipment.

Today In U.S. History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, Aug. 10, the 223rd day of 1968. There are 143 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the Japanese offered to surrender in World War II if the emperor would be permitted to keep his throne.
On this date: In 1792, France's monarchy was overthrown as mobs in Paris attacked the palace of King Louis XVI.
In 1821, Missouri became the 24th state in the Union.
In 1914, France declared war on Austria-Hungary at the start of World War I.
In 1874, Herbert Hoover, the 31st American president, was born at West Branch, Iowa.
In 1921, Franklin D. Roosevelt was stricken with polio at his summer home at Campobello Island in Canada.
In 1947, William P. Odom set a record by flying alone around the world in 73 hours and five minutes.
Ten years ago: A United Nations scientific committee reported that radioactive contamination from nuclear tests could create new and unknown hazards to present and future generations.
Five years ago: The United States tried to persuade West Germany to join the nuclear test ban treaty.
One year ago: A federal commission on civil disorders recommended "improved" riot training for the National Guard and recruitment of more Negroes into the guard.

Drew Pearson Special

Nixon leads in playing spy games.

MIAMI BEACH--Behind the furious political maneuvering at the Republican convention, the rival candidates engage in an unpublished, undercover game of espionage.

They intercept one another's radio signals, infiltrate one another's caucuses, inspect each other's trash. The fast security around the candidates has been devised as much to protect them from political spies as from political assassins.

Before the first banner was raised and the first balloon inflated at Miami Beach, the candidates had carefully compiled detailed information on the sex life, financial affairs, personal friendships, political and religious beliefs of all the delegates.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller's padlocked delegate books and Richard Nixon's guarded looseleaf folders, for instance, divulge the incidental intelligence that delegate Herman Faber of Parkersburg, Iowa, dropped out of the Dumont County Schools at age 12; That David Treen of Metairie, La., has been contributing to the COP on a $10-a-month installment plan; that Mrs. Dorothy Conaghan of Tonkawa, Okla., likes to watch her three boys play baseball; That Edmund Thornton of Ottawa.

To watch her three boys play baseball; that Edmund Thornton of Ottawa, Ill., is really more interested in polar bears than presidential candidates; That Mrs. June Honomann of Landisville, Pa., is a crack shot with a rifle.

NIXON'S MOST EFFICIENT

For the secret of convention politics is reliable intelligence.

Nixon appears to have the most efficient espionage network. His forces have been able to monitor the radio communications of his rivals, but, at this writing, they had been unable to locate his broadcast bands.

The Nixon spies easily learned, for instance, that Governor Nelson Rockefeller had arranged to use four discrete railroad radio service frequencies at the convention—including 160.680 (for security), 160.740 (for paging). They even knew that Rockefeller's main transmitters were GE-ET-58-A units with a power of 150 watts.

Nixon also found out that governor Ronald Reagan was broadcasting on 17 different frequencies, ranging from 48.56 to 456.650.

If they wish, they could also tune in on Illinois Senator Charles Percy, a vice presidential hopeful, who has set up a radio center—complete with a 30-foot antenna—on the Evans Governor Hotel. He is operating, they learned, on frequencies 159.225 and 159.465.

CONVERTED SAUNA

In contrast, Nixon's rivals have been unable to home in on his radio transmissions. They know only that he has set up a communications center in a converted ladies' sauna atop the Hilton Plaza Hotel. No one is admitted who hasn't been investigated and cleared.

Nixon's private security force is directed by Jim Golden, a retired secret service agent, who formerly was one of Nixon's bodyguards when he was Vice President.

Golden has issued plastic identification cards, complete with color photographs, to Nixon staff members. A formula of small boxes at the bottom of each card tells exactly which rooms in Nixon headquarters that the bearer is authorized to enter. Only the most trusted aides are admitted to the 17th floor, where Nixon himself directs campaign strategy. The floor has been completely sealed off and is better guarded than a nuclear laboratory.

Nixon staff members have also been carefully coached to deposit all waste—including carbon paper, typewriter ribbons and shorthand notes—in "burn bags" which are collected and incinerated each night.

Nixon's conference rooms and telephones, of course, are checked regularly for electronic bugs.

Similar, but more haphazard, security precautions have been adopted by the other candidates. If a Republican should become President, at least he will be familiar with some of the techniques of espionage and security.

Workshop to Begin Monday

CHARLESTON - Dr. Don Hair, assistant superintendent of Kansas City schools, along with other educators, will be here beginning Monday for another pre-school teacher training program. The program will be financed with federal funds.

This year's workshop will be designed for junior high staff and will involve all the teachers from every junior high school department. Attention will be given to the English and social studies departments since team teaching will be implemented in these areas beginning this year. The high school teachers of English and social studies will aid in the junior high workshop along with a training program they too will be undergoing as they get ready for their second year of team teaching.

Along with Dr. Hair, the workshop director, Mabel McLaughlin will be here to work with the social studies and English teachers and Robert Johnson will be present to work with the science, math and the industrial arts personnel. Both teachers are from Spokane, Washington. Other consultants, not yet named, will be here on a two day basis to help in areas such as art, physical education, home living and music. Ron Miller, presently employed by the Kansas City Schools, will be available the first few days. Mrs. McLaughlin and Mr. Miller were consultants during last summer's senior high workshop.

To highlight the final day of the two week session, Aug. 23, Dr. Robert Gilchrist, director of the Mid-Continent Regional Educational Library, will address the participants and interested persons from the community. Dr. Gilchrist carries with him such credentials as being superintendent of schools at University City. Followed by the superintendency of the public schools of Cleveland.

Schools Painted At Charleston

CHARLESTON - In preparation for the teacher workshop and for the school year ahead, school custodial personnel have been busy since the close of school painting all the interior walls of the old high school building presently housing the seventh and eighth grades.

All areas with the exception of the auditorium will be redecorated. Plans are to complete that task during the summer of 1969.

Along with the new epoxy paint which is going on in beautiful light colors, floor surfaces are also being redone in the lower halls, the old study hall—which will be used in team teaching—and the old business department which presently houses the junior high library. A poured floor which will blend in with the new hall colors will be applied to the lower halls and stair cases. Carpeting will set-off the library and the area formerly used for the study hall. New cafeteria tables have also been purchased which should add to the "new look" students will recognize on returning to school this fall.

Two Attend FBL Meeting

Miss Betty Powers, president of the Future Business Leaders of America Chapter, and Electa O'Hara, sponsor, left Friday for Washington, D. C., to attend the national convention of the Future Business Leaders of America.

Miss Powers is a nominee for vice president of the north central region. She is president of the Missouri Future Business Leaders of America.

FBLA is the national youth organization for high school and college students, who plan careers in business or in business education.

TASTE OF TEXAS

NEW YORK (AP) - Edward Everett Cauthorne, oldest living alumnus of the University of Texas, got a special gift for his 103rd birthday. It was a T-Bone steak sent to him in New York by Texas Gov. John B. Connally.

Cauthorne ate the steak with his own teeth.

CAPTURED ENROUTE TO Dallas, was the Harold Peck family of McConnellsburg, Penn. The husband is retired from the air force. The family was on their way to Texas to visit relatives of Mrs. Peck. Guests of the Trevelodge, the family stands with their hosts and captors, back row, from left are Larry Browning, policeman; Jerri Montgomery, waitress, Lloyd Williams, manager; Lilly Proffer, waitress; Mrs. Marge Peck, partly hidden. School Will Open Sept. 3

CHARLESTON - Opening day of school for the Charleston R-1 district has been set for Sept. 3, at 8:34 a.m.

High school students will report to the gymnasium for an orientation assembly.

The high school schedule will consist of five (5) 69 minute time blocks with the school day beginning at 8:34 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m.

As was instigated last year, all high school students will eat lunch in the school cafeteria.

Choice of Agnew Surprise to Missouri Bloc

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Missouri's delegation put 24 votes firmly behind Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew for the Republican vice presidential nomination Thursday night at the party's national convention.

However, some members had earlier indicated they weren't too happy about the selection. A few showed astonishment and outright disbelief when informed GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon had picked Agnew for his running mate.

But leaders of the Missouri delegation expressed confidence in Nixon's selection.

Lawrence K. Roos, St. Louis banker who will head the Republican ticket in Missouri this fall as the nominee for governor, said: "I think I can feel comfortable running with a Nixon-Agnew ticket."

"If Nixon can project his true worth, he will surprise a lot of people," said Roos. "I think that face-to-face with Hubert Humphrey, the Nixon-Agnew ticket will look good. I think it will help us."

Vice President Humphrey appears to be the frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gene Taylor, national committeeman and chairman of the Missouri delegation, said he thinks Nixon and Agnew will run well.

"It's going to take a lot of hard work," he said. "But I think we have ever had. We can be victorious this November."

Mrs. Rosemary Ginn, national committeewoman from Columbia, said earlier she had every confidence that Nixon had made the right choice in the selection of a running mate.

"I don't know Agnew very well, but I had enough confidence to vote for Nixon for president, and I have confidence in his ability to select a vice presidential candidate."

R. J. King, minority leader of the Missouri House, said he was quite surprised by the choice of Agnew.

McGovern Declares Chased by Police, Senath Entry in Race for Man Killed in Crash Demo Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota declared his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today, committing himself to "the goals for which Robert Kennedy gave his life."

McGovern, 46, said those goals were "an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the divisions of our own society."

McGovern's move turned the contest for the Democratic nomination into a three-way race. Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota are also candidates.

McGovern asserted that "I make no claim to wear the Kennedy mantle." But his declaration was seen as a move to attract those who supported Robert Kennedy for the nomination.

Kennedy forces have not, for the most part, rallied behind another candidate since the senator's murder June 6.

In a formal statement declaring his candidacy, McGovern made frequent references to the Kennedy family.

Terming Robert Kennedy "the most talented and passionate political leader of this generation," McGovern said he would have been nominated, elected and become "one of our truly great presidents."

"But that is not to be," McGovern said. "Nor is there anyone else to play his role in American political life."

The senator said he had not sought the endorsement of Kennedy's widow, Ethel, or his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Kennedys, McGovern said, "are entitled to a moment away from the political pressures of 1968, and I would not anticipate anything other than their quiet understanding of what it is to seek to do."

McGovern pledged active support to either Humphrey or McCarthy if one of them is nominated, "not only for their own considerable merit but because there is nothing in Mr. Nixon's past record to indicate that he is a man of either peace or compassion."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the Republican nominee for president.

"I have heard talk about the 'new Nixon,'" McGovern said, "but the Bible warned us long ago about the danger of putting new wine into an old bottle."

The senator recalled his own longstanding opposition to the Vietnam conflict and said "that war must be ended now — not next year or the year following, but now."

In an apparent slap at Humphrey's support of the Johnson administration's war policies, McGovern said "it is our responsibility to take to the American people a platform and a leadership determined to reverse this error — not to rationalize it."

He also called for: —An end to the draft and substitution of a voluntary enlistment plan.

—Harnessing "the full spiritual and political resources of this nation to put an end to the shameful remnants of racism and poverty that still afflict our land."

—Systematic reduction of the nation's military-industrial complex.

Democrats bear a special burden, McGovern said, because of the party's 1964 declaration that "we seek no wider war."

McGovern's announcement was followed almost immediately by a statement from Pierre Salinger, press secretary to the late President John Kennedy and a leading figure in the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign, that he was on McGovern's side.

"I plan to support Sen. McGovern, to vote for him in Chicago and do whatever within my power to help him," Salinger's statement said.

"I speak only as an individual, but I believe that Sen. McGovern, more than any other man seeking the presidential nomination of my party, brings with him the idealism, the understanding and the compassion of the late Sen. Kennedy."

The Texas White House said there was no comment from President Johnson on McGovern's declaration.

McGovern, one of the first public figures to disagree vigorously with Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, has 26 delegates to the Democratic National Convention definitely committed to him.

They are the votes of the South Dakota delegation which agreed to back McGovern last month during a short-lived boomlet for his active candidacy. Kennedy, a close to state politics.

McGovern has headed the "Committee for a Democratic Convention," which recently has been working on a Vietnam peace proposal for the Democratic platform. The committee includes several Kennedy supporters and has worked along with some McCarthy backers.

McGovern faces a tough reelection campaign in his own state this November and stayed neutral in the South Dakota primary election.

McGovern won his first Senate term in 1962 by a scant 50.1 per cent of the vote in a traditionally Republican state.

Until 1963 he taught at Dakota Wesleyan University. He left the classroom that year to become head of the state party.

He unseated a Republican in 1966 to win a House seat and was re-elected two years later. In 1968, however, he failed in a bid to unseat Sen. Karl Mundt and served two years as food for peace director in the Kennedy administration before returning to state politics.

James Gentry, 22, Senath, was dead on arrival at Dunklin County Memorial hospital, following an accident today at 1 a.m., on highway 25, one half mile south of Kennett.

He was being chased by Kennett police when he lost control of his speeding car, ran off the road, traveled 630 feet along a ditch before striking a tree, the state patrol reported.

The body was taken to McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

One person was injured today at 1:05 a.m. at the intersection of Interstate 55 and 61, three miles south of New Madrid.

A 1965 Ford, driven by Robert Huddleston, 25, Pioneer, La., had stopped at a stop sign, when his car was struck in the rear by a 1968 Chevrolet, driven by John Jimerson, 30, Dewitt, Ark.

Louann Reeves, 16, Oak Grove, La., passenger in the Ford, received a bruised arm and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

Jimerson was arrested on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Mary Winchester, 35, Malden, received a fractured hip, today at 1:50 a.m. on the Township road, one mile north of the Malden airbase.

She was a passenger in a 1961 Ford station wagon, driven by Leo Winchester, 37, Malden airbase, when the station wagon ran off the road and struck an unidentified parked 1963 Oldsmobile in the rear.

The injured woman was taken to the Dunklin County Memorial hospital, and the driver given a summons for driving while intoxicated.

Annie Williams, 36, Oak Ridge, driver of a 1968 Chevrolet was injured in an accident Friday at 3:20 p.m., on route B, one mile north of Biehle in Perry County.

She received a back injury and was taken to Perry County Memorial hospital in Perryville.

She was coming over a hill. Apparently a farm tractor stalled in the middle of the road. She failed to see the driver of the tractor flagging down traffic in time to stop. She skidded off the road and struck an embankment.

Police said they attempted to stop Gentry because of a traffic violation.

At least 32 lives lost as plane crashes in fog

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A Piedmont Airlines plane with 37 aboard crashed in flames while trying to land at Charleston's fog-covered mountaintop airport today.

First reports indicated 32 were killed with three of five known survivors termed "in very critical condition."

Charleston Piedmont agent William Hanson said the plane — Flight 230 — originated in Louisville, Ky., and stopped in Cincinnati before flying on to Charleston. It was due in Virginia at Roanoke, Richmond and Newport News before terminating at Norfolk.

The twin-engine plane crashed into the hilltop about 50 yards before reaching the runway, skidded about 200 yards and flipped over in flames.

Air National Guardsman, stationed at an armory at the airport three miles northeast of Charleston, rushed to the scene to cover the plane with firefighting foam to prevent a further fire.

The plane carried a crew of three in addition to its 34 passengers. No one was reported leaving the wreckage.

Charles General Hospital reported receiving six bodies and two injured persons while others were taken to Charleston Memorial Hospital. Ted Ambrecht, vice president of a Charleston department store, was waiting to take off in his private plane when the Piedmont plane crashed.

He said neither he nor his pilot could see it because of the fog cover "but all of a sudden, there was just a whumph."

They looked out their plane's windows, he said, and saw flaming wreckage hurtling in all directions.

The plane was coming in over the airport's guide system — a long series of lights to help pilots as they approach the runways—but it crashed short of the plateau.

A temporary morgue was set up at the National Guard headquarters at the airport but reports on the number of dead taken there were sketchy.

The plane had landed at Cincinnati, Ohio before making its scheduled stop at Charleston. It was then due at several points in Virginia — Roanoke, Richmond, Newport News and Norfolk.

Washburns Escape As Fire Razes Home

BLODGETT — Otto Washburn, 67, and his son, Kenny Washburn, 29, barely escaped with their lives from their burning home a half mile north of here at 2 a.m. today. The fires origin was not determined.

They fled in their nightclothes, losing all other possessions in the home owned by Ben Marshall III on a farm, where the two had worked. The five-room frame house was on highway H.

The elder Washburn retired from farming two years ago.

The two would be grateful for household articles and clothing to again set up housekeeping. Donations may be given to Reece Gates, Blodgett, or call Harold Brewer, 471-9625, who will pick up donated items.

Auto Warranties May Be Dropped

DETROIT (AP) — Those five-year or 50,000-mile warranties on new cars may go the route of the rumble seat with the introduction of the 1969 models.

If you do get a warranty it might cost extra. And it may have a deductible feature, like auto insurance.

Insiders report the automakers would like to get rid of these warranties altogether. Some believe they'll do just that.

If the 5-50,000 warranty on power trains goes by the boards, the automakers would extend the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee that applies to the rest of the car to the power train—the engine, transmission, drive shaft, wheels and bearings.

Figuring in the debate on the 5-50,000 elimination is the fear that this, coupled with higher prices for the cars, might set off a loud howl by critics, particularly those in Congress.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors refuse any comment regarding elimination of the 5-50,000 warranty or a rise in prices, except to say they will announce their decisions when new models are introduced in early September.

Customers complain of periodic check-ups necessary to keep the 5-50,000 guarantee in force, and of having to get certificates of service should they get a check-up at a service station instead of a dealer.

Dealers complain check-ups cause jams in their service departments, inundate them with paper work and, additionally, that they're not always fully compensated by the companies for required repairs.

As late as 1960, the industry's warranty was for 90 days or 4,000 miles, whichever came earlier. This applied to the whole vehicle.

Ford came up in 1961 with a 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee on Lincoln Continentals, and made this standard on all Ford's 1963 models.

Chrysler and GM went to a 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty in 1961, then Chrysler rocked the industry in 1963 by introducing a 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty on the power train and continuing its 12-12,000 on the rest of the car. In 1967 Chrysler added the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee for the rest of the car.

American Motors and GM joined Ford in extending to 24-24,000 coverage in 1963. These three got to the 5-year or 50,000-mile power-train warranty on 1967 models, continuing the 24-24,000 warranty on other components.

Lindsay Leaves Door Open to Later Candidacy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, by refusing to take part in an abortive rebellion against naming Spiro T. Agnew as Republican vice presidential nominee, has laid the groundwork for a future bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

Despite the views of some who tried to convince Lindsay he would be the main challenger in a floor fight Thursday night, chances were slim for success against the personal choice of presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

One result would have been to sow resentment among party regulars, who played such an important role in assuring Nixon the nomination and in beating down the last-minute uprising against Agnew's selection, defeating Michigan Gov. George Romney 1,128 to 178.

Lindsay, who sat out the 1964 presidential campaign rather than support Barry Goldwater, was able by agreeing to give a seconding speech for Agnew to reassert his party regularity.

Ike Shows Constant Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors said today former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making such "constant improvement" after his recent major heart attack that he is no longer being given oxygen on a continuous basis.

The doctors at Walter Reed General Hospital reported this in a morning medical bulletin, amplified in answer to reporters' questions.

Word of Eisenhower's improvement came as officials disclosed statistics showing the general already has survived twice as many heart attacks as normally would be expected to kill a man.

Eisenhower has suffered three of his heart attacks in the past 3½ months which puts him in a statistical category wherein reliable figures on survivors are not available.

Series of Accidents Kill 10, Injure Scores

A series of accidents Friday, including the crash of an Air Force Flying Boxcar, a train wreck and two bus accidents, have caused passenger deaths and scores of injuries across the nation.

The combined toll today stood at 10 dead and more than 180 injured in six unrelated mishaps.

Six Air Force reservists were killed when the C119 Flying Boxcar on a training flight crashed landed in a pasture shortly after taking off from Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington, Ohio.

The crew of four and 21 other reservists passengers survived. The reservists, all from the southwestern Ohio area, were midway through their annual two-week summer training program and were en route to Otis AFB Mass.

Near Middletown, Ohio, a teen-age motorist was killed and another comfortable 24 hours. His vital signs have remained stable and his morale is excellent."

It was in answer to previously submitted questions that the doctors said Eisenhower no longer is being given oxygen continuously, but they implied that he was being given oxygen at intermittent periods.

Series of Accidents

more than 100 train passengers shaken up or injured when a station wagon struck the engine of a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train.

Five cars, including three passenger coaches, were derailed. Warren County Sheriff Byron Kennard estimated there were more than 100 passengers on the Cincinnati to Detroit train.

The injured were taken to Middletown Hospital where all were treated and released.

Near Cobleskill, N.Y., a Greyhound bus with 38 persons aboard overturned during a heavy rainstorm killing a teenage girl and injuring the others. Nine persons were hospitalized.

State police could give no immediate cause for the accident. Witnesses said the bus was on a straightaway when it fishtailed, struck a guardrail, skidded sideways and then flipped over on the driver's side. In Texas a woman passenger died and 34 other persons were injured when a crosscountry bus skidded across rainswept U.S. 87 and overturned.

The accident happened three miles south of Tulsa in the Texas panhandle while the bus, operated by Texas, New Mexico & Oklahoma Coaches, was enroute from Denver, Colo., to San Antonio, Tex.

In Idaho a pilot was killed when his converted torpedo-bomber crashed as he bore into a smoke haze to drop chemicals on a forest fire about 50 miles northeast of Boise.

And in Pine Mountain, Ga., six persons including U.S. Rep. Richard L. Roudsbush R-Ind., and his wife were injured when their small plane crashed while attempting to land at an airport. All six were in fair condition.

Nixon, Agnew Fly to LBJ Ranch Briefing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Republican Richard M. Nixon left Miami International Airport today on the opening missions of his presidential campaign, a visit to President Johnson and an effort to make his surprise running mate a man familiar to the nation.

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the Republican choice for vice president, was at Nixon's side as the GOP nominee's party took off. The two will pay a joint call on Johnson at the LBJ ranch in Texas.

Nixon said they would receive a Vietnam briefing from Cyrus R. Vance, deputy U.S. negotiator in the Paris peace talks.

The Republican nominee said he and Johnson had talked by telephone and agreed that neither the GOP ticket nor the Democratic administration would attempt to use the Vietnam negotiations as political ammunition.

Nixon said it amounted to a gentlemen's agreement.

Although Nixon said he would do nothing to undercut the peace talks he added this would not remove the Vietnam war as a major campaign issue.

The Republican nominee was leaving with convention delegates still troubled over his decision to put Agnew in the vice presidential spot on the ticket.

"There is some real disagreement in the Republican party," Nixon said. "But not nearly as much as there is in the Democratic party."

But Republicans from a dozen states were complaining openly about the Agnew nomination, which stirred a brief, futile revolt at the closing session of the GOP convention.

"The people in Maryland don't even know him, let alone Ohio," said Rep. William E. Minshall of Ohio. "You might as well have picked his name out of a phone book."

Nixon, in a holiday mood on the eve of his campaign departure, had a ready answer: "He is going to go up in popularity and is going to be a great asset to the ticket. All I have to do is to see that he gets exposed" to the nation.

"A man overnight can become known through the tube," Nixon said about the use of television to reach voters.

"They're going to have to give me a tranquilizer to slow me down," Agnew said. "I am confident that I can do what has to be done in this campaign and, hopefully, in the administration to follow."

After leaving Johnson's ranch, Nixon and Agnew will go to San Diego to plan campaign strategy.

Baptist Men To Hold Chicken Fry on Tuesday

BENTON — Baptist men from Scott and Mississippi counties will gather Tuesday at 7 p.m. for their annual chicken fry. The event will be at their campground five miles east of Benton on highway 77. The Rev. Arthur Clodfelter, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hayti will speak.

A Poplar Bluff catering service will serve the meal.

Recreation Report Friday

The Summer Recreation committee, will give a final report on recreation activities, at a meeting in the city administration building, 316 South Kingshighway, Friday at 4 p.m., City Manager W. Raymet Miller announces.

Whittle Wins Post

NEW MADRID—Herbert Van Whittle of Canolau was elected Democratic committeeman from West Township by two votes. He defeated Earl Wrathe of Canolau, 153-151. Absentee votes were counted Friday.

In Tuesday's primary election Whittle polled 139 votes to Wrathe's 132.

Whittle received 14 absentee votes to Wrathe's 19.

Butler County School Plan Disapproved

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Dale M. Thompson of Kansas City was elected president of the State Board of Education Friday, succeeding Jack Webster of Springfield.

Mrs. True Davis of St. Joseph was chosen vice president.

Thompson is chairman of the board of City Bond and Mortgage Co. and president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

In other action Friday the board approved a school district reorganization plan to enlarge the Summersville R-II district in Texas County.

Two plans from Howell County and Butler County were disapproved and returned to the county boards of education for further study.

Washburns Escape As Fire Razes Home

BLODGETT -- Otto Washburn, 67, and his son, Kenny Washburn, 29, barely escaped with their lives from their burning home a half mile north of here at 2 a.m. today. The fire's origin was not determined.

They fled in their nightclothes, losing all other possessions in the home owned by Ben Marshall III on a farm,

Auto Warranties May Be Dropped

DETROIT (AP) — Those five-year or 50,000-mile warranties on new cars may go the route of the rumble seat with the introduction of the 1969 models. If you do get a warranty it might cost extra. And it may have a deductible feature, like auto insurance.

Insurers report the automakers would like to get rid of these warranties altogether. Some believe they'll do just that.

If the 5-50,000 warranty on power trains goes by the boards, the automakers would extend the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee that applies to the rest of the car to the power train—the engine, transmission, drive shaft, wheels and bearings.

Figuring in the debate on the 5-50,000 elimination is the fear that this, coupled with higher prices for the cars, might set off a loud howl by critics, particularly those in Congress.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors refuse any comment regarding elimination of the 5-50,000 warranty or a rise in prices.

Except to say they will announce their decisions when new models are introduced in early September.

Customers complain of periodic check-ups necessary to keep the 5-50,000 guarantee in force, and of having to get where the two had worked. The five-room frame house was on highway H.

The elder Washburn retired from farming two years ago.

The two would be grateful for household articles and clothing to again set up housekeeping. Donations may be given to Reece Gates, Blodgett, or call Harold Brewer, 471-9625, who will pick up donated items.

Lindsay Leaves Door Open to Later Candidacy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, by refusing to take part in an abortive rebellion against naming Spiro T. Agnew as Republican vice presidential nominee, has laid the groundwork for a future bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

Despite the views of some who tried to convince Lindsay to be the main challenger in a floor fight Thursday night, chances were slim for success against the personal choice of presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

One result would have been to sow resentment among party regulars, who played such an important role in assuring Nixon the nomination and in beating down the last-minute uprising against Agnew's selection, defeating Michigan Gov. George Romney 1,128 to 178.

Lindsay, who sat out the 1964 presidential campaign rather than support Barry Goldwater, was able by agreeing to give a seconding speech for Agnew to reassert his party regularity.

As late as 1960, the industry's warranty was for 90 days or 4,000 miles, whichever came earlier. This applied to the whole vehicle.

Ford came up in 1961 with a 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee on Lincoln Continentals, and made this standard on all Ford's 1963 models.

Chrysler and GM went to a 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty in 1961, then Chrysler rocked the industry in 1963 by introducing the 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty on the power train and the 3-year or 30,000-mile warranty on the rest of the car.

In 1967 Chrysler added the 24-month or 24,000-mile guarantee for the rest of the car. American Motors and GM joined Ford in extending to the 24-24,000 coverage in 1963. These three got to the 5-year or 50,000-mile power-train warranty on 1967 models, continuing the 24-24,000 warranty on other components.

McGovern Declares Chased by Police, Senath Entry in Race for Man Killed in Crash Demo Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota declared his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today, committing himself to "the goals for which Robert Kennedy gave his life."

McGovern, 46, said those goals were "an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the divisions of our own society."

McGovern's move turned the contest for the Democratic nomination into a three-way race. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota are also candidates.

McGovern asserted that "I make no claim to wear the Kennedy mantle." But his declaration was seen as a move to attract those who supported Robert Kennedy for the nomination.

Kennedy forces have not, for the most part, rallied behind another candidate since the senator's murder June 6.

In a formal statement declaring his candidacy, McGovern made frequent references to the Kennedy family.

Terming Robert Kennedy "the most talented and passionate political leader of this generation," McGovern said he would have been nominated, elected and become "one of our truly great presidents."

"But that is not to be," McGovern said. "Nor is there anyone else to play his role in American political life."

The senator said he had not sought the endorsement of Kennedy's widow, Ethel, or his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Kennedys, McGovern said, "are entitled to a moment away from the political pressures of 1968, and I would not anticipate anything other than their quiet understanding of what I seek to do."

ago about the danger of putting new wine into an old bottle."

The senator recalled his own longstanding opposition to the Vietnam conflict and said "that war must be ended now—not next year or the year following, but now."

In an apparent slap at Humphrey's support of the Johnson administration's war policies, McGovern said "it is our responsibility to take to the American people a platform and a leadership determined to reverse this error—not to rationalize it."

He also called for: —An end to the draft and substitution of a voluntary enlistment plan. —Harnessing "the full spiritual and political resources of this nation to put an end to the shameful remnants of racism and poverty that still afflict our land."

—Systematic reduction of the nation's military-industrial complex.

Democrats bear a special burden, McGovern said, because of the party's 1964 declaration that "we seek no wider war."

McGovern's announcement was followed almost immediately by a statement from Pierre Salinger, press secretary to the late President John Kennedy and a leading figure in the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign, that he was on McGovern's side.

"I plan to support Sen. McGovern, to vote for him in Chicago and do whatever within my power to help him," Salinger's statement said.

"I speak only as an individual, but I believe that Sen. McGovern, more than any other man seeking the presidential nomination of my party, brings with him the idealism, the understanding and the compassion of the late Sen. Kennedy."

The Texas White House said there was no comment from President Johnson on McGovern's declaration.

McGovern, one of the first public figures to disagree vigorously with Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, has 26 delegates to the Democratic National Convention definitely committed to him.

They are the votes of the South Dakota delegation which agreed to back McGovern last month during a short-lived boomlet for his active candidacy. Kennedy, a close to state politics.

friend and Senate ally of McGovern's, had won the votes in the state primary.

McGovern said then he was flattered by the move, but realized it was just a way of keeping the delegation together. He said he still intended to seek reelection to the Senate and would campaign only for that office.

Two weeks ago he escalated his national position slightly by saying he would let his name be used as a rallying point for any uncommitted delegates. He said he agreed to this during a conversation with former Kennedy aide Theodore Sorensen.

At the time he was killed, Kennedy had committed to him more than 300 delegates to the convention, opening Aug. 26 at Chicago.

Much of that force has remained uncommitted with only a few reported shifting to either Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The most recent Associated Press poll of Democratic convention delegates showed 727 pledged to Vice President Humphrey; 418 to McCarthy, and 801 to uncommitted or pledged to favorite sons.

Total needed for nomination is 1,312.

McGovern has headed the "Committee for a Democratic Convention," which recently has been working on a Vietnam peace proposal for the Democratic platform. The committee includes several Kennedy supporters and has worked along with some McGovern backers.

McGovern faces a tough reelection campaign in his own state this November and stayed neutral in the South Dakota primary election.

McGovern won his first Senate term in 1962 by a scant 50.1 per cent of the vote in a traditionally Republican state.

Until 1963 he taught at Dakota Wesleyan University. He left the classroom that year to become head of the state party.

He unseated a Republican in 1966 to win a House seat and was re-elected two years later. In 1960, however, he failed in a bid to unseat Sen. Karl Mundt and served two years as food for peace director in the Kennedy administration before returning to state politics.

James Gentry, 22, Senath, was dead on arrival at Dunklin County Memorial hospital, following an accident today at 1 a.m., on highway 25, one half mile south of Kennett.

He was being chased by Kennett police when he lost control of his speeding car, ran off the road, traveled 630 feet along a ditch before striking a tree, the state patrol reported.

The body was taken to McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

One person was injured today at 1:05 a.m. at the intersection of Interstate 55 and 61, three miles south of New Madrid.

A 1965 Ford, driven by Robert Huddleston, 25, Pioneer, La., had stopped at a stop sign, when his car was struck in the rear by a 1968 Chevrolet, driven by John Jimerson, 30, Dewitt, Ark.

Louann Reeves, 16, Oak Grove, La., passenger in the Ford, received a bruised arm and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston. Jimerson was arrested on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Mary Winchester, 35, Malden, received a fractured hip, today at 1:50 a.m. on the Township road, one mile north of the Malden airbase.

She was a passenger in a 1961 Ford station wagon, driven by Leo Winchester, 37, Malden airbase, when the station wagon ran off the road and struck an unidentified parked 1963 Oldsmobile in the rear.

The injured woman was taken to the Dunklin County Memorial hospital, and the driver given a summons for driving while intoxicated.

Annie Williams, 36, Oak Ridge, driver of a 1968 Chevrolet was injured in an accident Friday at 3:20 p.m., on route B, one mile north of Biehle in Perry County.

She received a back injury and was taken to Perry County Memorial hospital in Perryville.

She was coming over a hill. Apparently a farm tractor stalled in the middle of the road. She failed to see the driver of the tractor flagging down traffic in time to stop. She skidded off the road and struck an embankment.

Police said they attempted to stop Gentry because of a traffic violation.

At Least 32 Lives Lost As Plane Crashes in Fog

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A Piedmont Airlines plane with 37 aboard crashed in flames while trying to land at Charleston's fog-covered mountaintop airport today.

First reports indicated 32 were killed with three of five known survivors termed "in very critical condition."

Charleston Piedmont agent William Hanson said the plane—Flight 230—originated in Louisville, Ky., and stopped in Cincinnati before flying on to Charleston. It was due in Virginia at Roanoke, Richmond and Newport News before terminating at Norfolk.

The twin-engine plane crashed into the hilltop about 50 yards before reaching the runway, skidded about 200 yards and flipped over in flames.

Air National Guardsman, stationed at an armory at the airport three miles northeast of Charleston, rushed to the scene to cover the plane with firefighting foam to prevent further fire.

The plane carried a crew of three in addition to its 34 passengers. No one was reported leaving the wreckage.

Charles General Hospital reported receiving six bodies and two injured persons while others were taken to Charleston Memorial Hospital. Ted Ambrecht, vice president of a Charleston department store, was waiting to take off in his private plane when the Piedmont plane crashed.

He said neither he nor his pilot could see it because of the fog cover "but all of a sudden there was just a whumph."

They looked out their plane's windows, he said, and saw flaming wreckage hurtling in all directions.

The plane was coming in over the airport's guide system—a long series of lights to help pilots as they approach the runways—but it crashed short of the plateau.

A temporary morgue was set up at the National Guard headquarters at the airport but reports on the number of dead taken there were sketchy.

The plane had landed at Cincinnati, Ohio before making its scheduled stop at Charleston. It was then due at several points in Virginia—Roanoke, Richmond, Newport News and Norfolk.

Wallace Says His Party Will Top One of Other 2

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — George C. Wallace says his third party "will submerge one of the two traditional parties" this fall.

The former Alabama governor, on a two-day campaign tour of North Carolina which Friday took him from Raleigh to Winston and back to Raleigh, told newsmen his third party movement "has already been successful in shaking the eye teeth" of Democratic and Republican leaders.

Wallace also said he doesn't want his name placed in nomination at the Democratic National Convention later this month. "I couldn't get the nomination if I wanted it," he said. "And I don't want it."

Wallace drew more than 10,000 people for a speech at the Wilson County Fairgrounds Friday night, but his talk was cut short by a thunderstorm which soaked the crowd at the outdoor rally.

People were still streaming to the fairgrounds when the candidate started his talk nearly 30 minutes behind schedule, but they turned back as the crowd rushed for the gates in the downpour.

Nixon, Agnew Fly to LBJ Ranch Briefing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Republican Richard M. Nixon left Miami International Airport today on the opening missions of his presidential campaign, a visit to President Johnson and an effort to make his surprise running mate a man familiar to the nation.

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the Republican choice for vice president, was at Nixon's side as the GOP nominee's party took off. The two will pay a joint call on Johnson at the LBJ ranch in Texas.

Nixon said they would receive a Vietnam briefing from Cyrus R. Vance, deputy U.S. negotiator in the Paris peace talks.

The Republican nominee said he and Johnson had talked by telephone and agreed that neither the GOP ticket nor the Democratic administration would attempt to use the Vietnam negotiations as political ammunition.

Nixon said it amounted to a gentlemen's agreement.

Although Nixon said he would do nothing to undercut the peace talks he added this would not remove the Vietnam war as a major campaign issue.

The Republican nominee was leaving with convention delegates still troubled over his decision to put Agnew in the vice presidential spot on the ticket.

"There is some real disagreement in the Republican party," Nixon said. "But not nearly as much as there is in the Democratic party."

But Republicans from a dozen states were complaining openly about the Agnew nomination, which stirred a brief, futile revolt at the closing session of the GOP convention.

"The people in Maryland don't even know him, let alone Ohio," said Rep. William E. Minshall of Ohio. "You might as well have picked his name out of a phone book."

Nixon, in a holiday mood on the eve of his campaign departure, had a ready answer: "He is going to go up in popularity and is going to be a great asset to the ticket. All I have to do is to see that he gets exposed" to the nation.

"A man overnight can become known through the tube," Nixon said about the use of television to reach voters.

"They're going to have to give me a tranquilizer to slow me down," Agnew said. "I am confident that I can do what has to be done in this campaign and, hopefully, in the administration to follow."

After leaving Johnson's ranch, Nixon and Agnew will go to San Diego to plan campaign strategy.

Ike Shows Constant Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors said today former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making such "constant improvement" after his recent major heart attack that he is no longer being given oxygen on a continuous basis.

The doctors at Walter Reed General Hospital reported this in a morning medical bulletin, amplified in answer to reporters' questions.

The continuing optimistic word came as the five-star general, 77, was nearing the end of a one-week "critical period" which his doctors said follows any heart attack.

Eisenhower suffered the attack—his sixth since 1955 and his third in less than three and a half months—last Tuesday.

The doctors said Eisenhower does "light reading" during the day.

The medical bulletin said: "General Eisenhower has continued to progress satisfactorily and he has spent another comfortable 24 hours. His vital signs have remained stable and his morale is excellent."

It was in answer to previously submitted questions that the doctors said Eisenhower no longer is being given oxygen continuously, but they implied that he was being given oxygen at intermittent periods.

Word of Eisenhower's improvement came as officials disclosed statistics showing the general already has survived twice as many heart attacks as normally would be expected to kill a man.

Eisenhower has suffered three of his heart attacks in the past 3 1/2 months which puts him in a statistical category wherein reliable figures on survivors are not available.

The U. S. Public Health Service's National Heart Institute said that based on statistical evidence "it appears that the third heart attack is most often fatal."

A spokesman for the institute, added however, that some instances have been reported of people surviving "many" attacks, even beyond six. But the spokesman said he was unable to document any.

Glass, Board and Cars Hurt Three

Three admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital Friday:

Brian Culber, Charleston, cut right lower leg on glass; Ellen Jane Shaw, Sikeston, car accident, and Evolee Thompson, Sikeston, dropped board on right foot.

Police made one arrest Friday, when Bill Keefer, Morley, was given a summons for prohibited parking.

Series of Accidents Kill 10, Injure Scores

A series of accidents Friday, including the crash of an Air Force Flying Boxcar, a train wreck and two bus accidents, have caused passenger deaths and scores of injuries across the nation.

The combined toll today stood at 10 dead and more than 180 injured in six unrelated mishaps.

Six Air Force reservists were killed when the C119 Flying Boxcar on a training flight crashed landed in a pasture shortly after taking off from Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington, Ohio.

The crew of four and 21 other reservists passengers survived. The reservists, all from the southwestern Ohio area, were midway through their annual two-week summer training program and were en route to Otis AFB, Mass.

Near Middletown, Ohio, a teen-age motorist was killed and more than 100 train passengers shaken up or injured when a station wagon struck the engine wreck and two bus accidents, have caused passenger deaths and scores of injuries across the nation.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:

Well in our opinion the Republicans once again "craped in the mess kit" when they nominated Nixon. He has appeal to the regular politicians but to the ordinary citizen he is just a many times defeated politician.

No hero, no outstanding citizen for outstanding service, just an ex-bird dog for Eisenhower.

We predict that the Democrats could win with Ethical Ed even.

For centuries it has been known that we'd have the poor with us always, but since L.B.J. we know how expensive it will be.

Sad but true: What the younger generation is coming to is probably no worse than that from which it came.

Not being a steel company stock holder and know nothing about the market could it be that President Johnson knows that the profits of the steel company are great enough to absorb the recent labor raises that were granted the steel unions?

If the cost of making steel jobs high enough of course consumers will buy imported steel if they can give money.

THE NIXON NOMINATION

By the time Richard M. Nixon was nominated at Miami Beach this morning the high polish of his political engineering, which made it all seem so inevitable, tended to obscure the real marvel of the Republican party's choice.

Here was a man who had not won an election on his own for 18 years, who had incurred political liabilities which made him the Democrat's favorite candidate, who was weakest where the crucial votes were, who had renounced his career after ignominious defeat in his own state and then changed states, a man without a constituency and without executive experience.

Why should the Republicans prefer such a man to a Governor of New York who had thoroughly demonstrated special competence in the urban arena of our national crisis, and who offered the fresh ideas, breadth of outlook and capacity for skilled innovation which millions of Democrats and independents are looking for?

Mr. Nixon himself put his finger on the answer when he said he moved into a vacuum of party leadership after the Goldwater debacle of 1964. The question is why there was a vacuum-why a party which had begun to develop able leadership at the local and state levels developed so little at the national level.

We suspect the answer has something to do with the party's hard resistance to new ideas and its steady refusal to accept the facts of modern life. Such acceptance as it does come to is usually 20 years late. Meanwhile, progressives who try to work within the Republican party are defeated and isolated until they give up or, like Gov. Rockefeller, are driven out.

After Goldwater a vacuum did exist and Mr. Nixon filled it by making himself useful to the party managers, performing so many services in so many states that when the time came to collect his debts he could not be gainsaid. The party hierarchs felt comfortable with him. He does not disturb them, he tells them what they want to hear, and he convinces them that he is "safe."

Furthermore, Mr. Nixon has developed the art of political acceptability, of image-making, of technical manipulation, to a high pitch. He was able to boast, in his moment of triumph, that he had conducted his long campaign for the nomination (which we think began in 1962) without making a single mistake. And so he won on the first ballot, as he had to do, without resorting to the divisive tactics that would have been necessary to break up the favoriteson delegations and bludgeon the waverers. It was indeed a masterful performance and he is entitled to take pride in it.

The tactics that win a nomination are not, of course, those that win an election, and Mr. Nixon's problem will be quite different between now and November. It is possible that "his time has come," as everybody was telling everybody on the convention floor, and that the deep unrest that has manifested itself in both parties will take the form of electing anybody but a Democrat this fall.

Yet this unrest has something to do with a desire for change, and the basic reason for Mr. Nixon's nomination was a serene confidence on the part of the delegates that change is precisely what he does not stand for. If this satisfied the Republican delegates, it is by no means certain that it will safely the country.

As always throughout his career, Mr. Nixon's principal problem will be credibility, at a time when the country is thoroughly disenchanted with the lack of credibility of the Johnson Administration. The old Nixon constantly stands in the light of the new Nixon. When he suddenly becomes a foe of the Vietnam war, for example, how can the people account for the fact that he was one of the original authors of our intervention, and an enthusiastic supporter of military escalation until the people turned so massively against it?

There is no doubt that the Republican party wanted Mr. Nixon, but how wise it was to insist on him remains to be seen. We expect that the surging public demand for fundamental political change, particularly among young people, will now be redoubled within the Democratic party. Will the old politics be as successful in repelling the onslaught at Chicago as it was in Miami Beach? Of one thing we feel certain - that the movement which has found expression in the campaigns for Gov. Rockefeller and Senator McCarthy is not going to fade away. If both parties close their doors to change, the advocates of a new foreign policy and a new social conscience will be driven to seek outside the system what they cannot achieve within it.

Any man who can keep his mouth shut should be considered wise.

"What a beautiful child!"

"Shucks, you ain't seen nothing," replied Mama.

"You ought to see him in our home movies."

The tales of girls he used to have.

Occasionally love affairs drag on so long that Cupid disappears and Father Time takes his place.

Don't make yourself unpopular by having such a good memory that your friends are afraid to tell lies to you.

This has been an unpredictable presidential election year.

Those, who announced that they wouldn't run, changed their mind and ran.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who was running, pulled out because the polls gave him no chance of winning before his ballot appeal was well tested.

President Lyndon B. Johnson fooled everyone by announcing that he wouldn't run.

Against this background it may be foolish to predict that the Vietnam war will not be a major debatable issue in the campaign.

No one knows what a candidate will do or say in an effort to win.

No one knows what will happen in either Vietnam or at the Paris peace talks between now and November.

But if Hubert Humphrey is the Democratic presidential nominee it appears likely now that Vietnam won't be a top discussion issue.

It is likely that riots, crime, taxes, tight money, poverty, inflation and other pressing domestic pocketbook issues will be what Republican Presidential Nominee Richard Nixon and Humphrey will be discussing the most.

And who in 1964 would have expected Nixon to have been the 1968 G.O.P. standard bearer on any ballot let along the first?

Both Nixon and Humphrey may be expected to be discreet about Vietnam because of the experience they both have had watching the administration wheels turn as vice presidents.

Nixon had been a hawk. He has been as much of a hawk as Johnson perhaps a bit more. Of course, he might not have undertaken every course that Johnson took and he can now exercise hindsight. He might have gone much further in the effort to achieve a military victory.

Humphrey is trying valiantly to be what he describes as "his own man" but he cannot seriously challenge the Johnson policies in which he was a top administration leader. Humphrey cannot be expected to propose more than minor alternations in Vietnam war policy.

It's also a good question how each will conduct the war if elected. Taking the responsibility and talking about it are two different things.

In the 1964 presidential campaign, Republican Nominee Barry Goldwater talked like a hawk, Johnson like a dove.

In office, Johnson performed like a hawk.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Unruh maneuvering California delegation to McCarthy; all pro-Humphrey California congressmen off delegate list; Unruh eyes governorship in 1970

WASHINGTON - A skillful move by which Sen. Eugene McCarthy will take over most of the huge 174-vote California delegation, largest at the Democratic convention, is being planned by Jesse Unruh, speaker of the California assembly. He has already set up most of his secret maneuver and is scheduled to apply the finishing touches at a delegation caucus today.

What this means is that California, which votes early in the roll call of states at Chicago, will cast almost 174 votes for McCarthy and could start a psychological trend against Vice President Humphrey.

To put across this maneuver, speaker Unruh has made a deal with the leftist California Democratic council, with which he has always been at odds, to support him for governor in 1970. In return he has stacked the Democratic delegation with McCarthy supporters and eased out most of those for Vice President Humphrey.

He has even barred all California congressmen except three who are strong for McCarthy. Such an old-timer as Rep. Cecil King, who has served longer in congress than any other Californian, was dropped, together with Rep. Chet Holifield, new dean of the California delegation of congressmen. At a recent meeting of California Democrats in Washington with speaker Unruh, Holifield protested that he had attended every Democratic convention as a delegate since he had been in congress. It made no difference. Holifield is for Humphrey and he was barred.

Even such distinguished Democrats as Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, ex-governor, was excluded from the delegation, together with veteran congressmen John Moss, B. F. Sisk, George Miller, Lionel Van

The doctor smiled. "Well, can't you say the same thing?"

He: What's the matter? Don't you love me any more?
She: Of course I do. I'm just resting, that's all.

Czechoslovakia-At the spring meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, the young editor of the University of Michigan Daily, who had led the newspaper into the far-left flank of American college journalism, lectured to his colleagues of the "commercial press" on many things, including communism.

What the "commercial press" didn't understand, he said, was that communism had changed vastly since Stalin or even Khrushchev. There is a new and much benign communism today, he explained, and fear of it is not only old-fashioned but, perhaps, paranoiac.

It would be almost worth the price to buy the gentleman a ticket to Czechoslovakia.

The "New Wave" in Czechoslovakia, under Alexander Dubcek, is still only a ripple that may be erased at any moment by a tidal wave of Russian reaction. Dubcek's cryptic statement on Aug. 2, following the arm-twisting by the Russians at the Cerna conference, spoke of "deepening mutual co-operation" between the Communist nations. What did this mean? How much had he surrendered? Or had he really surrendered anything?

New forces have been unleashed in this drab and shabby land in the past 100 days, forces that have shaken European communism more than any event since the Moscow-Peking split. Can Moscow stuff the genie back into the bottle?

The old Czech who had once lived in London takes me by the arm to guide me through the twisted streets of the Old City.

"I can be seen talking with you," he says. "Two years ago that would have been dangerous. I can speak to you of what I think. Six months ago I would have been careful. And it is only the beginning. You should read our newspapers. 'When are the Russian troops going?' they ask every day. It is wonderful."

It is wonderful in the sense that a tourniquet is better than a severed artery, but it is not health. Under discussion is a new law that a man may hire as many as two other people. At present the state is the only employer and where one has no choice of employers the grossest exploitation is not only practical, but inevitable.

The average wage in Czechoslovakia today is 1,600 crowns a month. And what is a crown worth? The foreigner residing here gets 14 to the dollar from the government bank. The tourist gets 16. The to be weighed," she replied. So he took her over to the weight guesser. "107," the man said - and he was absolutely right.

Then they rode on the whip, after which he again asked her what she would like to do. "I wanna get weighed," was again her answer.

"There's a screw loose here somewhere," thought Paul, so he took the babe on back home even if it wasn't yet ten o'clock.

And the gal's mother, noting that she was home unusually early, said to her, "What's the matter, Dear? Didn't you have a good time?"

"Wousy," came the answer.

"Last week it was a mink coat!" roared the playboy when he saw the latest acquisitions his beautiful gal displayed for his approval.

"This week it's a diamond necklace, five hats and ten dresses!"

"So!"

"So where do you think I am going to get the money to pay for these things?" raved the playboy.

"That's your affair," rejoined the chick. "I'm not going around with you to give you advice on financial matters, am I?"

If you want people to know where you stand, don't change your socks.

A LIFESAVING RECORD

A Senate subcommittee has been holding hearings on the U.S. drug industry. These hearings have dragged along for months, and press reports have recorded the testimony of witnesses who have filled pages of the records with the alleged faults of the industry. It is therefore refreshing to read the testimony of a spokesman for one of the major drug firms* who tells of some of the achievements of his company and the industry. Among other things, he pointed out that it has been estimated that nearly 7 million Americans living today would be dead if the nation's mortality rate had remained at the 1937 level. The family of miracle drugs produced by the nation's leading drug firms played no small part in their survival.

So far as the price of drugs is concerned, the spokesman denied that generic medicines (medicines identified by scientific names rather than brand names) always cost less. He noted that the notion that the forces affecting the prices of generic products are different from those affecting the prices of brand-name drugs is a fallacy. Neither generic drugs nor trademarked drugs are any better than the demonstrated reliability of their manufacturer.

In the case of his company, he said the price index for all of its products declined from 102.6 in 1955 to 90.1 in 1966 - using 1957-59 prices as a base with an index of 100. In the same period, the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer's price index for all items rose from 93.3 to 113.1. Thus, product prices of leading drug firms have clearly run counter to the general inflationary trend.

Those who are quick to criticize the system of providing medicines in this country might well note the drug spokesman's concluding comment on that system: "We know that is not perfect - and yet it has been the means of sparing the American people much pain and suffering and providing them with better health and longer life. It is truly a remarkable system."

Add to the list of famous Nehru jacket boosters: Andy Williams, The Earl of Snowdon, Rocky Graziano, Sammy Davis, Jr., Johnny Carson, George Hamilton. These men are heralding and influencing a trend that will be widely accepted across the country this summer, reports the American institute of men's and boys' wear. If your wardrobe doesn't include a jacket with a stand-up collar for casual occasions this summer - and if they are a flattering style for you - then check with your local retailer. DILUTING THE DOLLAR:
Tough Construction
Craftsmen Now in $400-a-Week Bracket

Washington, D.C. - It surely doesn't pay to send the lads to some ivy-clad university. At best they'll get an education. At worst they wind up in some sit-in, shout-down or bust-out. Forget that old American dream - now obviously a nightmare - of your boy becoming president of the U.S.

Instead, get him into a bricklayers union, or a carpenters local, or some sheet metal international.

Maybe he could even become a pipefitter. Then he could start at $10.45 an hour, or almost $21 if it's double time. And if he works on his day off and on a holiday, this moves spritely along the $31 an hour and more.

It's all very new. Everybody has been following the primaries and conventions, and the nation's forgotten what's really basic. This columnist decided to let politics take a holiday for a few hours. I raced back to some strikes which were around as we entered the polling season.

It is all very fascinating since President Johnson, the White House, the Council of Economic Advisers and the people seem so helpless.

A check of a few cities, where strikes ran two to three months in the construction and building trades, disclosed that the "crafts" now are made up of workmen just too rich to be poor.

In Dayton, Ohio, after a 73-day stoppage which left even a national labor leaders agast, the bricklayers won a 72 per cent pay hike over two years.

That's right. Not 6 per cent as in steel, which has everybody so upset, but 72 per cent.

All the bricklayers had to do was cripple $100 million worth of construction, and they finally wrenched a $4.10-an-hour increase over the two years. This brings the hourly pay cost to $9.75 an hour, or $19.50 an hour for overtime work. That's not bad pay - even for a Harvard graduate.

In Toledo, the iron workers settled for a $2.10-an-hour raise over two years. This brings their hourly rate to $7.63, or a boost of 19 per cent a year.

But that's only for the proletariat. The elite such as the sheet metal workers, according to the latest bulletin from that front, were holding out for a raise of $5.14 an hour over three years. This would be a 100 per cent increase since they now earn $5.14; it would bring their rate to $10.28 an hour straight time. They struck May 1.

In Michigan and Northwestern Ohio, the contractors lost millions in overhead costs during an 85-day strike by eight construction unions that no one seems to have noticed. This was the longest, most costly area-wide strike since the building of the Pyramids.

In this area, the carpenters won a $1.90-an-hour increase in wages and benefits over a two-year contract. This came to an increase of some 15 per cent each year.

New homes now will be priced some 10 to 12 per cent higher. Some folks tried to build with nonunion carpenters. But the home builders ran into tough luck. It just did not rain and several homes and an apartment house along with a lumber yard which supplied the wood, caught fire and burned down. It could happen to anybody.

It was one of those spontaneous things that happen when considerable heat engenders.

This was the worst strike year in construction history - with over 10 million man-days lost.

And what it's done to the nerves of Lyndon Johnson and his economic advisers is hard to estimate.

At 39, Arthur Okun, formerly of Yale, now chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, is too young to lose his hair. But he, like everybody else, appears hopeless and helpless.

The White House and Mr. Okun have been talking to national labor leaders. But they're helpless, too. "The local labor people just tell them to go to hell," says one White House philosopher, "and then they sign the craziest contracts."

"They'll just price themselves out of the market," he added. "But in the meantime, that's exactly what they're doing to the economy. There are another 250 major labor contracts coming up in the next few months."

"The other unions hear of those construction settlements. And everybody wants more. Talk to the national labor chiefs, and they're sympathetic to our problems on inflation."

"But they all say that we don't know the problems they have. They talk as though they'll have to apply for unemployment insurance themselves if they attempt to discipline their locals. So we're all in for it."

The upcoming 250 contracts could result in nationally crippling strikes. They could - and probably will - tie up the nation's waterfront, some railroads, coal mines and airlines - just to mention a few raw spots.

The rank and file wants every dollar it can get - even if the buck will be worth fifty cents by the time the new contracts pay off.

So write it in your diary that the next president will be as much harassed by this self-firing, rocketing inflation as he will be by war and peace, law and order and revolution in the streets.

Couple Married

CHARLESTON - Miss Faye Feezor and Jay Bledsoe were married July 26 at the Gravel Ridge Baptist church with the Rev. J. E. Cooper officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The former Miss Feezor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Feezor, route one, Charleston. Bledsoe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bledsoe, 906 Rodney Charleston.

John Bledsoe, brother of the groom, served as best man.

A reception was held in the dining hall of the church, immediately following the ceremony. The reception table was overlaid with a white linen cloth with a centerpiece of white lilies. The two-tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Ruth Ann Feezor, sister-in-law of the bride, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Dianna Chambers, served the punch. Miss Janie Russell, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register.

The couple is living at 226 Moore St. in Sikeston. Bledsoe is employed at Malone and Hyde at Sikeston.

Patti Belk Pledges Vows with Robert Gosche

BENTON - Miss Patti Belk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Michael of Benton, married Robert Gosche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gosche of Chaffee July 20 at the New Hamburg St. Lawrence church.

The Rev. Fr. Clem Imberger performed the double ring ceremony before an altar appointed on each side with baskets of carnations and pompons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white chiffon over-layed with lace. A semi-crown of lace, pearls, and crystals held her bouffant veil of illusion. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations and lilies of the valley surrounding a purple-throated orchid.

Miss Sandra Belk, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of blue satin over lace and carried a bouquet of blue carnations and pompons. Her noisette veil was secured with a blue satin bow.

Jim Gosche, the groom's brother, served as best man. Ushers were Larry Gosche and Larry Uelsmann.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the parish hall. It was decorated with white and blue paper streamers and wedding bells. The bride's table, covered in white, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake and appointed at each side with candles. Serving were the Misses Margie Gosche and Shari Uelsmann. Miss Debi Lawrence was at the guest book.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Thomas W. Kelly high school. The groom, also a 1968 graduate of Kelly, is employed on his father's farm near Chaffee where the couple is living. He will attend Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau in the fall majoring in agriculture and business.

A GUIDE THROUGH LIFE

Life is like a dark forest and dangerous animals hide in wait for us. But God wants us to get through safely, so first He gave us a map. If we believe Him and follow the path He has chosen, we can get through. But it is a complicated path, and people keep getting lost. So God finally came through the forest Himself - in Jesus His Son - so He could lead us through personally. Now all we have to do is follow Him.

Sincerely,
Robert E. Lively, Jr.

Dr. James H. Teeter, surgeon in the Waynesboro Hospital, Waynesboro, Pa., has extended his dedication and unselfish service to people around the world through his yearly "vacation."

Each year at vacation time Dr. Teeter, his wife and three sons pack up and go to some remote and often primitive hospital to take over surgical duties there, so resident doctors can have a month's vacation.

This is his sixth year of such service at his own expense and without pay. The first two years they were at an Ivory Coast jungle medical center. Next they were in West Pakistan, then Kenya and last year, Peru. This summer finds the Teeters in Taiwan for a month at a Mennonite Christian hospital.

The program of supplying substitute surgeons for mission hospitals in many parts of the world is under the supervision of the Christian Medical Society, headquartered in Chicago. There are about 100 American doctors participating.

For Dr. and Mrs. Teeter, a registered nurse who helps her husband, there are many rewards: getting to know and understand the many different peoples they meet; the joy of serving; and the fact that they, like many others, know that to serve God is to serve man.

Big Red Flatten Steelers 24-7

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Following last night's 24-7 exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers, St. Louis Cardinals quarterback Jim Ray Hart said that he is a better player for his one season of mistakes, and that the team is better for an off-season of controversy.

The evidence offered by Hart was the score, although Bill Austin, Steeler head coach, said the scoreboard only indicated the shape the Steelers are in.

Hart fired two touchdown passes and engineered a third ball control drive for another score. He hit on nine of his 16 passes in the first half before giving way to Charley Johnson who worked through the second half.

"I'm much more relaxed out there," Hart said. "I just feel more confident, maybe a little cocky. I think I learned from my mistakes last year."

Last year there were 30 Hart mistakes intercepted. Another two interceptions were thrown by Hart in the Steeler game.

Austin counted more than two mistakes in the game, however, saying, "We dropped about five interceptions." He added, "He threw the ball right into our hands."

Austin was sour on several areas in the Steeler performance. "We didn't block anybody," he complained. "Our quarterbacks didn't throw the ball well. We didn't have enough scrimmaging in training camp, and it looked like it. I know they are better, but there was nothing to tell me that tonight."

The lone Pittsburgh touchdown came when Kent Nix hit Roy Jefferson on a 16-yarder. Hart saw the victory in another light: "This really helped morale. I think this is tremendous for us in view of what we went through in the press."

The allusion was to a racial problem on the Cardinals that came to light at the end of last season. It was revealed that Negro ballplayers had several complaints about conditions on the club, including the attitudes of some white players and a coach to themselves.

Hart said the problem was blown out of proportion, but admitted there was a problem. He also said the Cardinals would benefit in the long run.

World Series Preliminary Opens Tuesday

The Sikeston Connie Mack Potlatch Forest baseball team - loaded with hitting and pitching talent - will be host at its first south plains regional tournament starting Tuesday.

Potlatch is the south plains defending champion, having won the tournament at Lamar, Colo., last summer. It then advanced into the World Series at Farmington, N. M., finishing fifth.

Eight teams will kick off the action Tuesday. Four games are scheduled with the first opening at 1:30 p.m.

A team will have a chance to continue with one loss but will have to bow out of action when it loses its second game. The tournament is a double elimination affair.

Teams from five states will vie for the honor of the regional championship and the right to move into the World Series in Farmington.

N. P. McDaniel is the manager of the Foresters and claims "this is the year."

Three of the eight teams have been designated, those include, Sikeston, Cape Girardeau and El Paso.

The Foresters have a 30-7 record and the SEMO Connie Mack league title to its credit.

A tournament pass ticket sales drive is now being staged. Tickets can be purchased at KMP-L radio studio, Bob Ralph Distributing Co., or from Ron Jaynes.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What are Godey prints?
A—Pages from Godey's "Lady's Book," the first woman's magazine published in the United States in 1830. They illustrated, in decorative settings, fashions for women and little girls.

Q—What is the origin of the word "keys" as applied to the Florida Keys?
A—The word is an English form of the Spanish word, "cayo," which means small island.

Q—In what area of the sky are there the most stars?
A—The region of the Milky Way in the upper part of the constellation of Cygnus, the swan.

Q—Do all bears hibernate?
A—No. The polar bear seldom hibernates though its home is in one of the coldest regions of the world. All other bears hibernate.

Q—What theory of Copernicus became the foundation of modern astronomy?

I-S-C pounded out five hits, including two doubles. The first drove in Brooks for the lead and what proved to be the winning run. Cairo grabbed an early 4-0 lead and was breezing along through four innings before the Aces broke the scoring barrier with a pair of runs in the fourth inning. It then exploded in the fifth for nine runs.

The Aces scored by seven hits in tallying its 11 runs, but capitalized on four bases on balls and three extra base hits in its final two innings. Saulters was the top hitter for the Aces with a three for four showing at the plate, including two fifth inning home runs.

Gibson Fires Shutout, Holds 16-5 Season Mark

By The Associated Press
Hard times for the St. Louis Cardinals are the shutouts Bob Gibson pitches because he has to. Happiness for the New York Mets is a high pop fly in Candlestick Park. The Cardinals scored just one run for the second game in a row Friday night, but Gibson made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over Atlanta that ran his winning streak to 13 games and broke a club shutout mark.

Roger Maris, whose 11th inning double gave the National League leaders a 1-0 nod over Cincinnati Thursday night, drove in the only run again with a third inning single.

The Mets beat San Francisco's Juan Marichal 5-4 when third baseman Jim Davenport dropped Cleon Jones' two-out pop in the ninth as the tying and winning runs scored. It was only the Mets' second victory over Marichal in 22 lifetime decisions.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati whipped the Chicago Cubs 7-3; Houston edged Pittsburgh 2-1 on Jim Wynn's two-run double in the ninth and Ricardo Joseph drove in all the Philadelphia runs in a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles.

Gibson, 16-5, scattered four hits on the way to his ninth shutout of the year and a career total of 34, one more than the Phillies from behind with a two-run single in the seventh. Gary Wagner saved the victory in relief of Chris Short, who was struck on the left forearm by a pitch in the eighth and forced to bow out.

Ken Boyer's first inning homer accounted for both Dodger runs.

Singles by pinch hitter Ron Swoboda and Bud Harrelson opened the ninth and Tommie Agee's one-out single cut the Giants' lead to 4-3. Larry Stahl forced Agee at second and Marichal got Jones to loft a high pop for what appeared to be the final out. But Davenport dropped it near the mound, allowing both Harrelson and Stahl to score.

Pete Rose's single triggered a five-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning that overcame Chicago's 2-1 lead and carried the Reds past the Cubs. Mack Jones' single, a double by Lee May, Johnny Bench's hit, a single by Tony Perez and a sacrifice fly by Tommy Helms sent the runs across.

A walk and Doug Rader's single set the stage for Wynn with two out in the ninth at Houston. His two-base hit off Elroy Face wiped out a 1-0 Pittsburgh lead built on Roberto Clemente's triple and Donno Clendenon's infield hit in the eighth.

Joseph smacked his second homer of the season in the fifth inning and then brought the

Big Red Flatten Steelers 24-7

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Following last night's 24-7 exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers, St. Louis Cardinals quarterback Jim Hart said that he is a better player for his one season of mistakes, and that the team is better for an off-season of controversy.

The evidence offered by Hart was the score, although Bill Austin, Steeler head coach, said the scoreboard only indicated the shape the Steelers are in.

Hart fired two touchdown passes and engineered a third ball control drive for another score. He hit on nine of his 16 passes in the first half before giving way to Charley Johnson who worked through the second half.

"I'm much more relaxed out there," Hart said. "I just feel more confident, maybe a little cocky. I think I learned from my mistakes last year."

Last year there were 30 Hart mistakes intercepted. Another two interceptions were thrown by Hart in the Steeler game.

Austin counted more than two mistakes in the game, however, saying, "We dropped about five interceptions." He added, "He threw the ball right into our hands."

Austin was sour on several areas in the Steeler performance. "We didn't block anybody," he complained. "Our quarterbacks didn't throw the ball well. We didn't have enough scrimmaging in training camp, and it looked like I know they are better, but there was nothing to tell me that tonight."

The lone Pittsburgh touchdown came when Kent Nix hit Roy Jefferson on a 16-yarder. Hart saw the victory in another light: "This really helped morale. I think this is tremendous for us in view of what we went through in the press."

The allusion was to a racial problem on the Cardinals that came to light at the end of last season. It was revealed that Negro ballplayers had several complaints about conditions on the club, including the attitudes of some white players and a coach to themselves.

Hart said the problem was blown out of proportion, but admitted there was a problem. He also said the Cardinals would benefit in the long run.

In 1963 Woolley, en route to that year's IMCA championship, had fought his way up from last spot to grasp the lead from Al Unser on the 49th lap. But coming out of the fourth turn on the final circuit with Al right behind, Gordon's engine failed.

Al won by a car-length. In 1966, Woolley trailed Sedalia's own Bill Utz the last 15 miles of the event, using every bit of his hard-won knowledge in an effort to pass, but to no avail.

Utz was in front, but barely, at the finish. Incidentally, he to, will be back seeking a second win this year.

Woolley, 43, who began racing modifieds in 1946 in his home town of Waco, Texas, this year will drive the brand new Chevy-powered sprinter owned by Herman and Charles Bellmore of Dallas. He terms it the best car he's ever driven and in his career he's driven the tops.

"We've got all the handling problems sorted out; we've got three engines; and I know the track like the back of my hand," he said. "I really think that this is going to be my year to win it—and I've been after it for a long time."

The Missouri State Fair sprint car opener Saturday, Aug. 17, will launch a 10-race Midwestern campaign for Woolley. Then will come the Futurity—the big one—on Sunday morning, Aug. 25.

Also entered are Benny Rapp, Toledo, Ohio; Norm Paul, Martinez, Calif.; Bill Utz, Sedalia; Bob Herring, Denver, Colo.; and many others.

The 15th Annual Missouri Modified Championships will be held Saturday, Aug. 17 and Aug. 23. First race will be at 8:00 p.m. IMCA late model stock car races will be held Aug. 18 Saturday afternoon, and a double-header Saturday afternoon and night, Aug. 24.

The St. Louis County Department of Parks and Recreation and The Meramec River Canoe Club will present the fourth annual Meramec River Canoe Races at Times Beach, two miles east of Eureka and 16 miles west of Lindbergh Blvd. on Hwy. 66, Saturday and Sunday, August 17th and 18th. Ron Kloepper, from St. Louis will defend his National Poling title for the second year in a row. Helen Denzel from Fenton, Western Division Women's Champion, will race in the Women's Division and Mike Guenther from Des Peres, Missouri's bid for the Olympic Canoe Team will also compete before he travels to the Olympic Canoe Trials in Los Angeles.

The National Poling Championship, the one mile Sprint, and the finish of the 15 mile marathon may all be viewed from Times Beach.

A new event will be held this year in conjunction with the other races to interest new paddlers in the sport. This event is called the Pleasure Class and will be open to entry for only men, women and teenagers who have never placed in a canoe race. This event will only permit standard type aluminum canoes and will not allow racing shells, giving all new paddlers an equal chance to compete.

Free Camping will be available at West Tyson Park, 200 yards east of the race site. Movies on canoeing will be shown on the gravel bar at 8:30 p.m. Saturday evening.

Saturday's events begin at 1 p.m. and continue until 6 p.m. Sunday the events start at 10:30 a.m. and will wind up with the National Poling Championship at 1 p.m.

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Whatever your social schedule, chances are you can don your denims and be completely with the fashion "in" crowd this fall. That was the "sock it to 'em" message the Denim Council brought to the fashion press at its special preview showing of new fall-winter '68 styles.

Denim, like "Dolly," is still glowin', still growin' and still goin' strong—dressed up in new plaids, stripes and checks as well as many new bright colors and the old familiar blues.

One show-stopper was a beautifully molded bias-cut evening gown in light blue with a full circular skirt, cowl neckline in front and V-neck in the back. An Indian motif edged the hem.

There was a South American look, too, in a three-piece hooded plaid poncho with matching long-sleeve jacket and pants.

Knickers showed up in a jaunty plaid paired with a cutaway jacket and blue cotton sleeveless blouse.

A plaid version of the Nehru jacket look was shown with matching pants.

The sneak preview proved that many of our top designers are using denim and that the fabric is still fashion's darling.

BRIGHT AND BULKY is the look of this tweed suit seen in New York as part of a fall-winter ready-to-wear collection by Lanvin of Paris.

BIRDS IN HER BONNET assures attention for actress-model Jane Fonda who wore this hat while attending a regatta at Henley, England.

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY

Much needed rains over most of the state have slowed farming activities. Hay harvest is main activity. Milo roqueing is being completed. Late peach harvest will start next week in Bootheel and southwest part of state. No available labor reported. Short 75 year-round farm hands.

SOUTHEAST

Cape Girardeau: 231 North Main Street - Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666

Labor supply and demand in balance for both year-round and seasonal type labor. Fruit harvest continues with adequate local labor available. No surplus labor available for out-of-area employment.

Caruthersville: 300 Ward Street - Telephone: Edison 3-2416

Cotton and early soybeans are all nearly laid by. Some big weeding of cotton and chopping of late soybeans is being done. Scattered showers during the week brought some relief but a general rain is needed.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street - Telephone: 888-1518

Due to occasional showers over the entire county the soybean and cotton crops continue to improve. Farmers continue to chop these crops.

The watermelon harvest slowed this weekend. The price dropped this weekend to 1 cent per pound after opening Monday at 1-1/4 cents per pound. Several growers have cut as many as four times, so it has been a most profitable season for most. The peach harvest is expected to get off to a good start next week. The Elbertas and other late varieties will be harvested. These late varieties account for about 70% of the annual Campbell crop. There are over 1000 acres of peach orchards around Campbell. Acreage almost doubling in the past three or four years. Local labor adequate.

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway - Telephone: Grainger 1-2731

Some cotton and bean chopping, watermelon and cantaloupe pulling and peach picking in area with adequate labor available. One or two crews will depart for tomato harvest in Ohio and Indiana about August 20. We have no labor available for out-of-area work. We have openings for five year-round farm hands with small families. Wage, $50 week, house furnished free. These employers are in no hurry to fill these openings and are being very selective.

Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp, Route 2, Sikeston

The Camp served 141 migrants this week. 90 were returning to Texas, 17 going to Ohio and 35 enroute to Michigan.

West Plains: 111 Walnut Street - Telephone: 256-3158

A good rain has been received over the area. Local farm activity slow, need head sawyer for local sawmill at $2.00 hour and commute. Qualified labor for referral remains in short supply.

Ann Landers

Child Can Overcome Bad Environment at Home

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a teen-ager who wanted to know what to do about parents who were always lashing it up. You suggested Alateen for the boy, a national organization for teen-agers who must live with alcoholics.

Do you know of an organization for teen-agers whose parents hate each other? Since I was a child all I can remember is fighting and name calling followed by days of no conversation and passing notes back and forth through us kids.

Last year Dad told Mom he was fed up with living in a pig pen and he was filing for divorce. Mom took a bottle of sleeping pills and almost died. Now every time they fight and Dad says something about a divorce, Mom threatens to kill herself.

What kind of a life do you think this is for a teen-ager? Is there any hope for me? — HOLLY

Dear Holly: Good it isn't, but since it's the only life you have you'd better make the best of it. Environment is important, but I've seen kids do extremely well in spite of a miserable and chaotic home life. What will break one child will make another. Resolve to do well in spite of what goes on around you. A challenge can make you stronger.

Dear Ann Landers: Ten months ago my wife's mother died. She was a widow and her two bachelor sons (38 and 42) lived with her. Every day since my mother-in-law passed away my wife has gone over to the house to clean, cook, and wash and iron for her brothers. Even Sundays. They have hired two housekeepers but fired them both because they say my wife's work is better. (They mean "free.")

They have never given their sister a dime or bought her a gift. She even pays her own bus fare over and back. I say if a person wants to be a darned fool it's her own business but our house could use a good cleaning and our own laundry is piled to the ceiling because my wife is too tired. Of course she's tired. Her brothers have made a cleaning lady out of her. What do you think of grown men who would treat a sister like this? — DORE ED

Dear Ed: Put the blame where it belongs -- on your wife. Nobody drags her to her brothers' place and holds a gun to her head while she washes, irons, scrubs and cooks.

It sounds as if the woman is suffering from guilt feelings. She may be trying to compensate for real or imaginary ways in which she failed her mother during her lifetime. It's one thing to be helpful, but her behavior is much too compulsive to be pure good-heartedness. Suggest professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much in love with John and he with me. We had a foolish argument and I told him to get out of my life for good. He took me at my word and I am heart sick. John is now dating my best friend, Renee. I pretend I am happy for her but it is eating me up alive.

Renee tells me everything John says and I could die when I hear those tender phrases that were once meant for me. Renee is mad about John and she keeps asking for advice on how to land him.

I used to laugh at people who had to write to Ann Landers but I'm right in line with the rest of the blunderers. Please tell me how to get him back. — FOOL OF THE YEAR

Dear Fool: First stop dispensing "helpful hints" under the pretext that you want Renee to succeed when in your heart you hope she flops. This is how ulcers are born.

Give John a call and tell him you're sorry. You have nothing to lose but a dime. And you might get your guy back.

Give in or lose him, when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Because the "Daily Sikeston Standard" continues to be at the center of communication in Sikeston, the City Summer Recreation Committee takes this way to extend public thanks to the Girl Scouts in Troop 13 who planned, promoted, and provided the entire leadership for two days of day-camping at Clayton Park for approximately 80 Sikeston girls who are not in scouting.

At the request of the City Recreation Committee, these fourteen Girl Scouts and their leaders, Mrs. John Sargent, directed games, crafts, nature, fun and a noon meal as a Community Service Project. Patricia Beck, Diane Quetmours, Patty Bush, Kathy Britt, Carolyn Greene, Jan Sargent, Linda Condict, Marki Ford, Sheila Clinton, Charlene Freeman, Dennie Lewis, Phyllis Lair, Beverly Ingram, Susan Dawson. The service these girls performed reflects admirably upon their Girl Scout training and their own personal citizenship.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, 1968
How shall I give thee up?
(Hosea 11:8)

PRAYER:
Through the example of Your Son on the cross, teach me to love and suffer, O God. Fill my heart with Your suffering love that I may also live for others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Perry went golfing with a foursome that was awesome. A female member of the group, a beginner, didn't even know how to hold a caddy. Her husband spent more time digging worms with his golf club than hitting the ball. And, George, the third member of the group, was half loaded. He didn't have to wait until the next morning, however, for his headache. As Perry teed off, he wacked George on the head with his follow through. And, for the rest of the afternoon, George heard birdies instead of getting them.

The next day, George sued Perry for the knob on his noggin. "He was a wooden headed driver," George told the judge. "I could have been killed. He should have looked behind him before swinging."

"Nonsense," was Perry's answer. "When a golfer is about to tee off, he's only required to look in front. That's where the action is."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Perry responsible for clobbering George on the head?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that it is common knowledge that no one should stand behind a golfer when he swings; that he should retreat to safety away from the firing line.

Today In U.S. History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, Aug. 10, the 223rd day of 1968. There are 143 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the Japanese offered to surrender in World War II if the emperor would be permitted to keep his throne.

On this date: In 1792, France's monarchy was overthrown as mobs in Paris attacked the palace of King Louis XVI.

In 1821, Missouri became the 24th state in the Union.

In 1914, France declared war on Austria-Hungary at the start of World War I.

In 1874, Herbert Hoover, the 31st American president, was born at West Branch, Iowa.

In 1921, Franklin D. Roosevelt was stricken with polio at his summer home at Campobello Island in Canada.

In 1947, William P. Odom set a record by flying alone around the world in 73 hours and five minutes.

Ten years ago: A United Nations scientific committee reported that radioactive contamination from nuclear tests could create new and unknown hazards to present and future generations.

Five years ago: The United States tried to persuade West Germany to join the nuclear test ban treaty.

One year ago: A federal commission on civil disorders recommended 'improved' riot training for the National Guard and recruitment of more Negroes into the guard.

Today In U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Aug. 10, the 223rd day in history. There are 143 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the Japanese offered to surrender in World War II if the emperor would be permitted to keep his throne.

On this date: In 1792, France's monarchy was overthrown as mobs in Paris attacked the palace of King Louis XVI.

In 1821, Missouri became the 24th state in the Union.

In 1914, France declared war on Austria-Hungary at the start of World War I.

In 1874, Herbert Hoover, the 31st American president, was born at West Branch, Iowa.

In 1921, Franklin D. Roosevelt was stricken with polio at his summer home at Campobello Island in Canada.

In 1947, William P. Odom set a record by flying alone around the world in 73 hours and five minutes.

Ten years ago: A United Nations scientific committee reported that radioactive contamination from nuclear tests could create new and unknown hazards to present and future generations.

Five years ago: The United States tried to persuade West Germany to join the nuclear test ban treaty.

One year ago: A federal commission on civil disorders recommended improved riot training for the National Guard and recruitment of more Negroes into the guard.

SIDE GLANCES By Gill Fox

VISITING with Ken Curtis, Festus Haggen of television's "Gunsmoke" series, is Randy Deason, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Deason of Blodgett, a patient in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Curtis is the star of the 16th annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo which ends Sunday.

93-Year-Old Woman Dies

BLOOMFIELD - Mrs. Wilberd E. Seabaugh, 93, died at 22:45 p.m. Thursday in a hospital at Dexter.

The former Miss Lillie Jane Shell, she was born Feb. 5, 1875, at Patton.

She married Seabaugh at Patton Nov. 21, 1898, and they lived in Stoddard County 20 years. Mrs. Seabaugh was a member of the Presbyterian Church at Patton.

Besides her husband, survivors are two sons, Paul D. Seabaugh, Cape Girardeau, and Wilberd S. Seabaugh, Torrence, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Edna E. Hardman, Florissant, Mrs. K. W. Blomeyer, Bloomfield; and Miss Lillie H. Seabaugh, of the home; six grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Presbyterian Church at Patton by the Rev. Sterling Aubuchon, pastor of United Trinity Methodist Church here assisted by the pastor of that church.

Burial will be in the Seabaugh family cemetery at Patton.

Final Rites Held

For Mrs. Carlson

BENTON - The Rev. James Seyer, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Cathedral in Cape Girardeau, officiated at 10 a.m. today at services for Mrs. Maynard Carlson, 58, who died Thursday.

Burial was in the Memorial Park cemetery in Cape Girardeau.

Pallbearers were Hess Porter, John Seabaugh, Henry Urhahn, Pat Urhahn, Joe Spalding, Jr., and Sam Stuckey.

Drew Pearson Special

Nixon leads in playing spy games.

MIAMI BEACH—Behind the furious political maneuvering at the Republican convention, the rival candidates engage in an unpublicized, undercover game of espionage.

They intercept one another's radio signals, infiltrate one another's caucuses, inspect each other's trash. The taut security around the candidates has been devised as much to protect them from political spies as from political assassins.

Before the first banner was raised at Miami Beach, the candidates had carefully compiled detailed information on the sex life, financial affairs, personal friendships, political and religious beliefs of all the delegates.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller's padlocked delegate books and Richard Nixon's guarded looseleaf folders, for instance, divulge the incidental intelligence that delegate Herman Faber of Parkersburg, Iowa, dropped out of the Dumont County Schools at age 12; That David Treen of Metairie, La., has been contributing to the COP on a $10-a-month installment plan; That Mrs. Dorothy Conaghan of Tonkawa, Okla., likes to watch her three boys play baseball; That Edmund Thornton of Ottawa.

To watch her three boys play baseball; That Edmund Thornton of Ottawa, Ill., is really more interested in polar bears than presidential candidates; That Mrs. June Honomann of Landisville, Pa., is a crack shot with a rifle.

NIXON'S MOST EFFICIENT

For the secret of convention politics is reliable intelligence.

Nixon appears to have the most efficient espionage network. His forces have been able to monitor the radio communications of his rivals, but, at this writing, they had been unable to locate his broadcast bands.

The Nixon spies easily learned, for instance, that Governor Nelson Rockefeller had arranged to use four discrete railroad radio service frequencies at the convention—including 160.680 (for security), 160.740 (for paging). They even knew that Rockefeller's main transmitters were GE-ET-58-A units with a power of 150 watts.

Nixon also found out that governor Ronald Reagan was broadcasting on 17 different frequencies, ranging from 48.56 to 456.650.

If they wish, they could also tune in on Illinois Senator Charles Percy, a vice presidential hopeful, who has set up a radio center—complete with a 30-foot antenna—atop the Evans Governor Hotel. He is operating, they learned, on frequencies 159.225 and 159.465.

CONVERTED SAUNA In contrast, Nixon's rivals have been unable to home in on his radio transmissions. They know only that he has set up a communications center in a converted ladies' sauna atop the Hilton Plaza Hotel. No one is admitted who hasn't been investigated and cleared.

Nixon's private security force is directed by Jim Golden, a retired secret service agent, who formerly was one of Nixon's bodyguards when he was Vice President.

Golden has issued plastic identification cards, complete with color photographs, to Nixon staff members. A formula of small boxes at the bottom of each card tells exactly which rooms in Nixon headquarters that the bearer is authorized to enter.

Only the most trusted aides are admitted to the 17th floor, where Nixon himself directs campaign strategy. The floor has been completely sealed off and is better guarded than a nuclear laboratory.

Nixon staff members have also been carefully coached to deposit all waste—including carbon paper, typewriter ribbons and shorthand notes—in "burn bags" which are collected and incinerated each night.

Nixon's conference rooms and telephones, of course, are checked regularly for electronic bugs.

Similar, but more haphazard, security precautions have been adopted by the other candidates. If a Republican should become President, at least he will be familiar with some of the techniques of espionage and security.

Workshop to Begin Monday

CHARLESTON - Dr. Don Hair, assistant superintendent of Kansas City schools, along with other educators, will be here beginning Monday for another pre-school teacher training program. The program will be financed with federal funds.

This year's workshop will be designed for junior high staff and will involve all the teachers from every junior high school department. Attention will be given to the English and social studies departments since team teaching will be implemented in these areas beginning this year. The high school teachers of English and social studies will aid in the junior high workshop along with a training program they too will be undergoing as they get ready for their second year of team teaching.

Along with Dr. Hair, the workshop director, Mabel McLaughlin will be here to work with the social studies and English teachers and Robert Johnson will be present to work with the science, math and the industrial arts personnel. Both teachers are from Spokane, Washington. Other consultants, not yet named, will be here on a two day basis to help in areas such as art, physical education, home living and music. Ron Miller, presently employed by the Kansas City Schools, will be available the first few days. Mrs. McLaughlin and Mr. Miller were consultants during last summer's senior high workshop.

To highlight the final day of the two week session, Aug. 23, Dr. Robert Gilchrist, director of the Mid-Continent Regional Educational Library, will address the participants and interested persons from the community. Dr. Gilchrist carries with him such credentials as being superintendent of schools at University City. Followed by the superintendency of the public schools of Cleveland.

Schools Painted At Charleston

CHARLESTON - In preparation for the teacher workshop and for the school year ahead, school custodial personnel have been busy since the close of school painting all the interior walls of the old high school building presently housing the seventh and eighth grades.

All areas with the exception of the auditorium will be redecorated. Plans are to complete that task during the summer of 1969.

Along with the new epoxy paint which is going on in beautiful light colors, floor surfaces are also being redone in the lower halls, the old study hall—which will be used in team teaching—and the old business department which presently houses the junior high library. A poured floor which will blend in with the new hall colors will be applied to the lower halls and stair cases. Carpeting will set-off the library and the area formerly used for the study hall. New cafeteria tables have also been purchased which should add to the "new look" students will recognize on returning to school this fall.

Two Attend FBL Meeting

Miss Powers is a nominee for vice president of the north central region. She is president of the Missouri Future Business Leaders of America.

FBLA is the national youth organization for high school and college students, who plan careers in business or in business education.

TASTE OF TEXAS NEW YORK (AP) - Edward Everett Cauthorne, oldest living alumnus of the University of Texas, got a special gift for his 103rd birthday. It was a T-Bone steak sent to him in New York by Texas Gov. John B. Connally.

Cauthorne ate the steak with his own teeth.

School Will Open Sept. 3

CHARLESTON - Opening day of school for the Charleston R-1 district has been set for Sept. 3 at 8:34 a.m.

High school students will report to the gymnasium for an orientation assembly.

The high school schedule will consist of five (5) 69 minute time blocks with the school day beginning at 8:34 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m.

As was instigated last year, all high school students will eat lunch in the school cafeteria.

Choice of Agnew Surprise to Missouri Bloc

However, some members had earlier indicated they weren't too happy about the selection.

A few showed astonishment and outright disbelief when informed GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon had picked Agnew for his running mate.

But leaders of the Missouri delegation expressed confidence in Nixon's selection.

Lawrence K. Roos, St. Louis banker who will head the Republican ticket in Missouri this fall as the nominee for governor, said: "I think I can feel comfortable running with a Nixon-Agnew ticket."

"If Nixon can project his true warmth, he will surprise a lot of people," said Roos.

"I think that face-to-face with Hubert Humphrey, the Nixon-Agnew ticket will look good. I think it will help us."

Vice President Humphrey appears to be the frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gene Taylor, national committeeman and chairman of the Missouri delegation, said he thinks Nixon and Agnew will run well.

"It's going to take a lot of hard work," he said.

"But I think we have the best state ticket we have ever had. We can be victorious this November."

Mrs. Rosemary Ginn, national committeewoman, from Columbia, said earlier she had every confidence that Nixon had made the right choice in the selection of a running mate.

R. J. King, minority leader of the Missouri House, said he was quite surprised by the choice of Agnew.

Maggie B. Siehr

Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Maggie Bell Siehr, 90, 738 East Gladys St., a housewife died Friday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital where she had been a patient 10 weeks.

Mrs. Siehr was born July 21, 1878, on Gleason county, Tenn. She married A. C. Siehr, Sept. 3, 1917, in Bradford, Tenn. They lived in Parma 41 years before moving to Sikeston 10 years ago.

Survivors are the husband, one son, Paul Jobe of Sikeston; four grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Cora Dunlap and Mrs. Hettie Funk, both of Clarkston.

Mrs. Siehr was a member of the Parma Methodist church more than 50 years.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in the Landess Funeral Home in Malden with the Rev. Harold Norton, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, and the Rev. Paul S. Skaggs, pastor of the Parma Methodist church, officiating.

Burial will be in the Stanfield cemetery, two miles south of Clarkston.

On August 19, 1963, Mike Poarch, then a Liberal high school junior won a safe driving contest. The next day he was involved in a traffic accident, and a month later he was involved in another.

Recently, Mike Linley, also a Liberal high junior, won the same safe driving contest. A few days later, the car he was driving was damaged when it hit a parked car. Mike escaped injury.

Nixon leads in playing spy games.

MIAMI BEACH—Behind the furious political maneuvering at the Republican convention, the rival candidates engage in an unpublicized, undercover game of espionage.

They intercept one another's radio signals, infiltrate one another's caucuses, inspect each other's trash. The taut security around the candidates has been devised as much to protect them from political spies as from political assassins.

Before the first banner was raised and the first balloon inflated at Miami Beach, the candidates had carefully compiled detailed information on the sex life, financial affairs, personal friendships, political and religious beliefs of all the delegates.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller's padlocked delegate books and Richard Nixon's guarded looseleaf folders, for instance, divulge the incidental intelligence that delegate Herman Faber of Parkersburg, Iowa, dropped out of the Dumont County Schools at age 12; That David Treen of Metairie, La., has been contributing to the COP on a $10-a-month installment plan; that Mrs. Dorothy Conaghan of Tonkawa, Okla., likes to watch her three boys play baseball; That Edmund Thornton of Ottawa.

To watch her three boys play baseball; that Edmund Thornton of Ottawa, Ill., is really more interested in polar bears than presidential candidates; That Mrs. June Honomann of Landisville, Pa., is a crack shot with a rifle.

NIXON'S MOST EFFICIENT

For the secret of convention politics is reliable intelligence.

Nixon appears to have the most efficient espionage network. His forces have been able to monitor the radio communications of his rivals, but, at this writing, they had been unable to locate his broadcast bands.

The Nixon spies easily learned, for instance, that Governor Nelson Rockefeller had arranged to use four discrete railroad radio service frequencies at the convention—including 160.680 (for security), 160.740 (for paging). They even knew that Rockefeller's main transmitters were GE-ET-58-A units with a power of 150 watts.

Nixon also found out that governor Ronald Reagan was broadcasting on 17 different frequencies, ranging from 48.56 to 456.650.

If they wish, they could also tune in on Illinois Senator Charles Percy, a vice presidential hopeful, who has set up a radio center—complete with a 30-foot antenna—atop the Evans Governor Hotel. He is operating, they learned, on frequencies 159.225 and 159.465.

CONVERTED SAUNA

In contrast, Nixon's rivals have been unable to home in on his radio transmissions. They know only that he has set up a communications center in a converted ladies' sauna atop the Hilton Plaza Hotel. No one is admitted who hasn't been investigated and cleared.

Nixon's private security force is directed by Jim Golden, a retired secret service agent, who formerly was one of Nixon's bodyguards when he was Vice President.

Golden has issued plastic identification cards, complete with color photographs, to Nixon staff members. A formula of small boxes at the bottom of each card tells exactly which rooms in Nixon headquarters the bearer is authorized to enter. Only the most trusted aides are admitted to the 17th floor, where Nixon himself directs campaign strategy. The floor has been completely sealed off and is better guarded than a nuclear laboratory.

Nixon staff members leave also been carefully coached to vice president of the north deposit all waste—including carbon paper, typewriter ribbons and shorthand notes—in "burn bags" which are collected and incinerated each night.

Nixon's conference rooms and telephones, of course, are checked regularly for electronic bugs.

Similar, but more haphazard, security precautions have been adopted by the other candidates. If a Republican should become President at least he will be familiar with some of the techniques of espionage and security.

Workshop to Begin Monday

CHARLESTON - Dr. Don Hair, assistant superintendent of Kansas City schools, along with other educators, will be here beginning Monday for another pre-school teacher training program. The program will be financed with federal funds.

This year's workshop will be designed for junior high staff and will involve all the teachers from every junior high school department. Attention will be given to the English and social studies departments since team teaching will be implemented in these areas beginning this year. The high school teachers of English and social studies will aid in the junior high workshop along with a training program they too will be undergoing as they get ready for their second year of team teaching.

Along with Dr. Hair, the workshop director, Mabel McLaughlin will be here to work with the social studies and English teachers and Robert Johnson will be present to work with the science, math and the industrial arts personnel. Both teachers are from Spokane, Washington. Other consultants, not yet named, will be here on a two day basis to help in areas such as art, physical education, home living and music. Ron Miller, presently employed by the Kansas City Schools, will be available the first few days. Mrs. McLaughlin and Mr. Miller were consultants during last summer's senior high workshop.

To highlight the final day of the two week session, Aug. 23, Dr. Robert Gilchrist, director of the Mid-Continent Regional Educational Library, will address the participants and interested persons from the community. Dr. Gilchrist carries with him such credentials as being superintendent of schools at University City. Followed by the superintendency of the public schools of Cleveland.

Schools Painted At Charleston

CHARLESTON - In preparation for the teacher workshop and for the school year ahead, school custodial personnel have been busy since the close of school painting all the interior walls of the old high school building presently housing the seventh and eighth grades.

All areas with the exception of the auditorium will be redecorated. Plans are to complete that task during the summer of 1969.

Along with the new epoxy paint which is going on in beautiful light colors, floor surfaces are also being redone in the lower halls, the old study hall—which will be used in team teaching—and the old business department which presently houses the junior high library. A poured floor which will blend in with the new hall colors will be applied to the lower halls and stair cases. Carpeting will set-off the library and the area formerly used for the study hall. New cafeteria tables have also been purchased which should add to the "new look" students will recognize on returning to school this fall.

Two Attend FBL Meeting

Miss Betty Powers, president of the Future Business Leaders of America Chapter, and Electa O'Hara, sponsor, left Friday for Washington, D. C., to attend the national convention of the Future Business Leaders of America.

Miss Powers is a nominee for vice president of the north central region. She is president carbon paper, typewriter ribbons and shorthand notes—in "burn bags" which are collected and incinerated each night.

Nixon's conference rooms and telephones, of course, are checked regularly for electronic bugs.

School Will Open Sept. 3

CHARLESTON - Opening day of school for the Charleston R-1 district has been set for Sept. 3, at 8:34 a.m.

High school students will report to the gymnasium for an orientation assembly.

The high school schedule will consist of five (5) 69 minute time blocks with the school day beginning at 8:34 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m.

Choice of Agnew Surprise to Missouri Bloc

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Missouri's delegation put 24 votes firmly behind Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew for the Republican vice presidential nomination Thursday night at the party's national convention.

However, some members had earlier indicated they weren't too happy about the selection. A few showed astonishment and outright disbelief when informed GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon had picked Agnew for his running mate.

But leaders of the Missouri delegation expressed confidence in Nixon's selection.

Lawrence K. Roos, St. Louis banker who will head the Republican ticket in Missouri this fall as the nominee for governor, said: "I think I can feel comfortable running with a Nixon-Agnew ticket."

"If Nixon can project his true warmth, he will surprise a lot of people," said Roos.

"I think that face-to-face with Hubert Humphrey, the Nixon-Agnew ticket will look good. I think it will help us."

Vice President Humphrey appears to be the frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gene Taylor, national committeeman and chairman of the Missouri delegation, said he thinks Nixon and Agnew will run well.

"It's going to take a lot of hard work," he said.

"But I think we have the best state ticket we have ever had. We can be victorious this November."

Mrs. Rosemary Ginn, national committeewoman from Columbia, said earlier she had every confidence that Nixon had made the right choice in the selection of a running mate.

R. J. King, minority leader of the Missouri House, said he was quite surprised by the choice of Agnew.

DRIVING AWARD DANGEROUS

On August 19, 1963, Mike Poarch, then a Liberal high school junior won a safe driving contest. The next day he was involved in a traffic accident, and a month later he was involved in another.

Recently, Mike Linley, also a Liberal high junior, won the same safe driving contest. A few days later, the car he was driving was damaged when it hit a parked car. Mike escaped injury.
